CROWDS THRONG NATIONAL IRIS SHOW

Hersler Given Life Term For Slaying Bloomfield Woman

FLORAL BEAUTY VIVIDLY SHOWN IN COLISEUM

Crowds thronged the university coliseum Saturday afternoon as the twelfth annual national iris show opened in conjunction with the seventh annual Lincoln spring flower show. A bewildering fairyland of garden splendor met their eyes as they looked upon delicate blooms of every type and at all manner of gardens, floral arrangements and table displays. Judges were just finishing their work at 2 o'clock and winners were to be announced during the afternoon. Sweepstakes awards were being reserved for late in the day.

Entering the coliseum, the lavish display is immediately visible on all sides. Just outside the walls of the coliseum ramps are rock garden displays of the University of Nebraska and the Lincoln park department. They are filled with rock plants, cactus and sedums in harmonizing shades and the university display has a row of deep red geraniums flanked with gray border plants.

Judges Named.

Inside, occupying half of the coliseum floor, are the gray-covered shelves for the general floral and iris displays and it was here that judges did the major part of their work. Judges were: Hans Sass, peonies, August Eiche and Dr Frederick Eiche, garden flowers; Lillian Eiche, Mrs. Clarence Miles, and Elizabeth Dolan, floral arrangements; and Arthur Danielson, Howard Claimer, and Fred Eiche, special arrangements. Judges for the iris exhibits were to be picked from among members of the American Iris society.

The v... from the center entranceway to the coliseum floor looking northward is an inspiring view.

Three large, attractive reflecting pools were installed down the center of the floor, but were withdrawn when the containers started leaking. Half way down the floor, rows of evergreens extend in a solid

'Lincoln' Iris Named By Hans Sass Is One of His Finest Creations

Hans Sass, nationally famous iris hybridizer of Washington, Neb., Saturday afternoon named one of his newest and finest irises for the city of Lincoln at the national iris show.

The standards of the iris are a beautiful buff yellow, and the falls are rich velvety maroon, making a striking flower. It is large, well branched and uniform.

The Lincoln iris was selected by Mr. Sass himself, but he declined to say from which other irises he had originated it.

Iris fanciers were enthusiastic over the selection, declaring it ranks among the finest in the world.

The "Lincoln" iris is on display at the national show in the coliseum.

Henceforth, the "Lincoln" will be known throughout the world as it makes its way into gardens in every clime.

Hans and Jacob Sass with over a hundred varieties of iris entered in the show had the most complete array of exhibits of that gorgeous flower.

Three Men Die in Ohio Powder Blast

PAINESVILLE, O., May 19—(INS)—Three men were killed and three others were injured today when a chemical explosion completely destroyed the $80,000 plant of the Premier Bronze Powder Co here.

Within two hours after the first explosion, three other explosions occurred and scattered flaming debris over the nearby vicinity. No one was hurt in the second blasts.

Victims of the first explosion were Simon Aber, Joseph Orosz and Hans Zender.

OUTLAW DILLINGER IS INDICTED FOR HARBORING CROOKS

MADISON, Wis., May 19—(INS)—John Dillinger, America's public enemy No 1, today was indicted by the federal grand jury here on a charge of harboring criminals.

In addition to Dillinger, all members of his party at Little Bohemia, fishing lodge at Spider Lake, Wis., where Dillinger and his gang fought it out successfully with federal operatives, also indicted on the harboring count.

The others indicted were John Hamilton, Homer Van Meter, Pat Riley, Tommy Carroll, George Nelson, Rose Anker, Marie Conforty and Ann Southern. The last three named were the women companions of the gangsters and are held in the Dane county jail.

DIVERSION OF WATER ASSAILED

Lower Platte Farmers Demand Release Of Storage.

LEXINGTON, Neb., May 19—(AP)—C J McNamara, president of the Lower Platte Irrigation association, today telegraphed Governor Bryan, Secretary Ickes and Governor Leslie Miller of Wyoming, protesting against restrictions on the flow of the Platte river. In his telegram to Bryan he said:

"The Cozad Ditch company with a priority appropriation of 1894 and the South Side Ditch company with a priority of January, 1895, were closed May 13 by your order for lack of water to supply senior appropriations. According to the report just received from Mr Willis there is being stored in the Pathfinder and Guernsey reservoirs 1958 second feet daily of the natural flow of the North Platte river.

"It is so dry here that the seed farmers have had in the ground for three weeks will not come up for lack of moisture. They are demanding that you as chief executive of the state protect their rights and take action to have this water released which is being illegally hoarded during the irrigation season.

"Six of the eight irrigation canals between North Platte and Kearney are closed and the river is dry here at Cozad."

Bryan Asks Report

Governor Bryan has asked Chief Willis of the state irrigation bureau whether water is being improperly stored in the Pathfinder reservoir.

"We will communicate with Washington officials and do everything we can to see that rights of Nebraska irrigators are protected," the governor said. "Reports of the situation are very conflicting and we are trying to ascertain the facts."

LINCOLN DAYS TO SHOW CITY'S BIG ADVANTAGES

Merchants Make Great Preparations for Event Next Week.

Lincoln's dominance as the shopping center of the middlewest will be demonstrated by "Lincoln Days," a great three day event which will be held May 22, 23 and 24. The purpose of the merchandising celebration is to prove to Lincoln people and their friends in the surrounding territory that they can get more style, better selection, and better values here than ever before possible and better than it is possible to get anywhere else.

Visitors to the retail institutions will find that every effort has been made to make their trip convenient and comfortable. With the exception of red lines, parking regulations will not apply to out of town cars. Hotels are providing free rest rooms and are offering to check parcels for out of town visitors without charge. Extra salespeople are being added by the merchants who have joined together in their usual spirit of ... to make ... the ... of all event. Special win-

Scene Of National Iris And Lincoln Flower Show

—Macdonald Photo.

Nature's prettiest and most colorful smiles were posed for this picture in the University of Nebraska coliseum Saturday morning as officials prepared to open the doors of the National Iris show and the Lincoln Flower show for the public.

The camera, poised on the balcony of the field house, caught a birds-eye view of the exposition, which is expected to be examined in detail by thousands of visitors from all over Nebraska and many other states.

Coliseum portals opened at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and were to remain open until 9 o'clock in the evening. Sunday hours are from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

GOVERNMENT IS OVERTHROWN BY BULGARIAN ARMY

King Boris Dissolves Parliament; Cabinet Ousted And Arrested.

SOFIA, May 19—(AP)—The army of Bulgaria today overthrew the nation's government, and King Boris, approving the radical change, dissolved parliament.

Whether King Boris, one of the last of rugged individualist sovereigns, engineered the military coup d'etat was not immediately apparent. Certain it was, however, that the army had complete charge of the situation.

Soldiers were everywhere. They had rushed the barracks at dawn, stationed themselves at every strategic point, and occupied all government buildings.

The public was quiet. The citizens stayed close indoors by orders of the army. No rioting was reported.

Cabinet Arrested.

The former cabinet, ousted by the army, was arrested and placed under guard. A new cabinet, headed by Kimon Guerorguieff as premier, took office at once with the sovereign's approval.

It was rumored that the king had demurred for a time at dissolving parliament and establishing the new form of government which was described as dictatorial.

If that rumor is true, his hesitation lasted only a short time, for by noon he had signed 30 decrees of reorganization.

It was said that he was not even aware of the military movement until troops surrounded his palace, but there was no official indication as to what his knowledge of the situation really was.

The whole operation of the coun

Wife Of Rev. Barch Dies at Home Here

Nebraska Resident For Nearly Half Century Passes Away Saturday Morning.

Mrs Ella J. Barch, 76, wife of Rev E Lewis Barch, retired Methodist minister, died at her home, 4903 St Paul avenue at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning. She had made her home here for the past three years but had lived at various points in the state for nearly 50 years.

Rev Barch had pastorates at Nehawka, Rulo, Stella, Strang, Havelock, Beatrice, Sutton, Edgar, Blue Springs, Guide Rock, Wahoo, Wisner, Oakland, Silver Creek, Raymond, Rosalie and Oakdale, and in each of these places Mrs Barch was well known for her activity in affairs of the church and community.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Lawrence B Barch of Lincoln and David W Barch of Brooklyn, Wash., and two daughters, Mrs George Coffey of Wymore and Mrs Frances Wonnelborf of Norfolk. The body is at Castle, Roper & Matthews mortuary.

DIVIDEND PAID TO WINSLOW PATRONS

A further 3 per cent payment of $15,769 is being made by the state receivership office to depositors in the closed Winslow State bank of Winslow. The total they have received to date is 12 per cent, or $28,746.

Million Dollar Alfalfa Crop From First Cutting In Two Counties Will Be Ready Soon For Drouth Areas

A million-dollar crop from the first cutting of alfalfa in Dawson and Buffalo counties will be ready in two weeks, for sale in drouth areas where a shortage of feed is growing more serious daily, A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, said Saturday.

Anderson said 95,000 acres of alfalfa in those two counties will be ready for the first cutting in two weeks. Production in this irrigated and sub-irrigated area will approximate 90,000 tons, and considerable of the crop will be available for shipment into the drouth territory to alleviate the feed shortage there, he declared.

While the crop is not as heavy as usual, it will make a fine quality of hay and may average a ton per acre, Anderson said.

At present prices, ranging from $10 to $13 per ton on the farm, the crop will bring Dawson and Buffalo county farmers approximately $1,000,000.

Cut in NRA Hours And Boost In Pay Said Recommended

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)—The national labor advisory board was reported unofficially today to have recommended that the hours of labor provisions of all NRA codes be cut 10 per cent with a compensating 10 per cent boost in wage rates.

Hugh S Johnson, to whom the recommendations were understood to have been made, has not yet acted on them.

HEAT SHATTERS MAY 19 RECORD

Mercury Touches 94 Here At 2 P. M.; No Rain In Prospect.

The all-time heat record for May 19 set in 1912 was broken at 2 o'clock Saturday when the mercury reached 94 degrees. The previous record was 93 degrees.

The sun glared, and the mercury obediently shot upward again Saturday. There were still no prospects of rain but the weather bureau offered slight solace with the prediction of "somewhat cooler temperatures" Sunday.

After a high of 94 degrees here at 3 and 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, the mercury sank to 67 degrees at 5 o'clock Saturday morning. At 8 o'clock it had gone to 74 degrees.

Elsewhere in the state it was hot also, Friday's high temperatures at the weather bureau's stations being reported as follows: North Platte, 96; Valentine, 98; Sioux City, 98; and Omaha, 94.

CRACK FIELD IN FINALS OF BIG SIX MEET

Cunningham Time Tests Awaited; One New Mark On Books.

Glen Cunningham, Kansas' sensational miler, took an easy victory in the mile in 4.23.3, just nine seconds slower than the Big Six conference record of 4.14.3. Lochiner of Oklahoma was second.

Crack athletes of the Missouri Valley region assembled at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon for the Big Six conference track and field championships—the sixth since the new circuit was organized.

Topping the field was Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas mile marvel, who was conceded new records in the distance events if he elects to turn on full speed, and Heye Lambertus, Nebraska's national champion low hurdler, figured to win his pet event but hardly counted upon for a new record since the low timbers this year are being run around a full turn.

A blustery wind promised to bother the classy group of high jumpers headed by Doug Barham, Oklahoma jumper who has cleared 6 feet 6 1/4 inches this season.

One new record was already on the books as the program of finals opened. Elwyn Dees, Kansas' little giant, heaved the 16-pound shot 50 feet 1 3/4 inches on his first toss of the Friday preliminaries. The effort was just ahead of Hugh Rhea's record heave of 49 feet 11 1/4 inches, made during the 1932 meet.

MASSACHUSETTS CITY SWEPT BY $700,000 BLAZE

Factories, Homes, Stores and Boat Yard of Yachts Burned.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., May 19—(AP)—A fire, believed incendiary, roared through the riverfront section of the city today destroying factories, homes, stores and a shipyard filled with valuable private yachts.

It levelled an area a quarter of a mile square and caused damage estimated by insurance underwriters at between $700,000 and $900,000.

Four hundred persons were thrown out of work with the destruction of the Fisher shoe factory and a dozen families were made homeless by the burning of their dwellings.

Fire fighting apparatus was summoned from a score of surrounding Massachusetts and New Hampshire towns.

Only Two Casualties.

Only two casualties were reported. Both were firemen and both were overcome by smoke. Neither was in a serious condition.

The fire began in a lone, wooden abandoned building, formerly a shoe factory, just before 2 a. m. It was brought under control shortly before 4 o'clock.

The belief that the fire was set came from an unusual series of events during the late evening.

Three alarms were sounded at close intervals just about midnight. The first was for a fire in a garage. The second was for a fire in a mattress in a nearby dwelling which fire officials said was set. The third was a false alarm.

Boats Destroyed.

The flames leapt up to the Fisher shoe factory and then to Odd Fellows block which was formerly a state armory. In rapid succession the blaze ate away several houses, two blocks of stores, a gasoline filling station and the McKay boat yard where between 40 and 50 small yachts lay on marine railways waiting to be placed in the water.

The wharf and main shed at McKay's were quickly victims of the fire and within a short time the boats were blazing. The yard and its complement of yachts lay black and almost unrecognizable as day broke.

GUILTY PLEA ENTERED IN AX MURDER

Farm Hand To Be Brought To Penitentiary Next Week—Funeral Services Held At Bloomfield For Mrs. Henry Nielsen, Victim of Employe's Attack.

CENTER, Neb., May 19—(AP)—John Hersler, 50 year old bachelor farm hand, today pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge for the slaying of Mrs. Henry Nielsen, 50, at her farm home near Bloomfield last Wednesday and was sentenced to life imprisonment by District Judge C. H. Stewart.

County Attorney Arthur L Burbridge questioned the farm hand this morning, filed the charge against him and then took him before the district judge. Officers plan to take Hersler to the state prison at Lincoln next week.

Hersler Claims Remorse.

Hersler told Judge Stewart that there had been some difficulty between him and Mrs. Nielsen about three weeks ago and that they had not been on speaking terms.

On the day of the killing he approached her at the farmhouse well and asked her what she had against him. She called him a name, he asserted, and he grabbed the ax and struck her twice.

Then he went into the house, changed to a clean pair of overalls to go down town but stopped on the way and hit Mrs. Nielsen again with the ax.

He said that he is sorry now that he struck her.

Funeral Today.

Funeral services for Mrs Nielsen, who was born in Germany in 1884, will be held at the First Trinity Lutheran church in Bloomfield at 2.30 p. m. today after brief services at the farm home. Hersler used an axe to kill the woman.

The axe was left near the farm home by Hersler, who then walked to Bloomfield, confessed the crime to an attorney and then hitchhiked 10 miles to Center, the county seat, listened to testimony at a murder trial in District court and then surrendered to officers.

Four Children Survive.

Besides her husband, a farmer, Mrs. Nielsen is survived by four children Rudolph, Max and Gertrude of Bloomfield and Walter, who works on a farm near Omaha; her parents Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kuchl of Germany, and a grandchild, the child of Rudolph. The Rev. A. Ollenberg will officiate at the funeral.

FAMILY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Sullivans Suffer Only Minor Hurts As Car Goes Into Ditch.

Mr. and Mrs John Sullivan, 2296 Holdrege street, and their six children escaped with minor injuries when a rear tire blew out on their large sedan, catapulting the car into a ditch two miles west of Waverly, Saturday morning.

After receiving medical attention all but three members of the family were dismissed from St. Elizabeth's hospital. Three daughters, Loretta, 9, who suffered a fractured left foot, and Marie, 15, and Doris, 5, remained at the hospital. Marie and Doris suffer from cuts and bruises, were retained for further examination.

Mr. Sullivan received a severe gash over the left eye and Mrs Sullivan was cut about the face and suffered bruises about the legs. Other members of the family who suffered cuts and bruises are: Arthur, 17, bruises about the face; Mary, 12, and Richard, 3.

Mrs. Sullivan and Arthur were taken to the office of Dr. V. S. Barkey in Havelock by a passing motorist and after receiving treatment, were taken home. The others were taken to the hospital in an ambulance and were caerd for by Dr. H. Blum.

The accident occurred shortly after 9 o'clock while the family was enroute to Omaha to visit relatives. Mr. Sullivan said the car became unmanageable after the blow-out and swerved into the south ditch. After hitting the ditch, the car struck a log. Both front wheels were torn from the machine and front of the car was demolished.

Warden Fenton May Return Here Soon

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 19—The condition of Warden W T Fenton of the Nebraska penitentiary was reported as unchanged at the Mercy hospital here today.

Warden Fenton has improved sufficiently so that the early return of he and Mrs. Fenton to Lincoln is contemplated, according to word received in Lincoln Saturday from Dr Bryan Fenton, son of the warden, who went to San Diego early this week. Warden Fenton suffered a stroke of apoplexy May 11.

IOWA WOMAN IS HURT IN CRASH

Car Is Crowded Into Ditch On West O Early Saturday.

Mrs. Nellie Pierce, 55, of Richland, Ia., suffered a severe laceration on her right leg and crushing chest injuries when the car in which she was riding crashed over in a ditch several miles west of Lincoln on highway No. 6, early Saturday morning.

Dr. J. B. Anderson who is attending the injured woman at St. Elizabeth's hospital said he did not believe Mrs. Pierce is seriously hurt, but results of x-ray examinations were not known.

The accident occurred when the car in which Mrs. Pierce was riding with her son met another machine on a hill and was crowded in the ditch, police were told.

John Pierce, husband of Mrs. Pierce, was following his son and wife in another car. He and his son succeeded in removing Mrs. Pierce from under the wreckage and brought her to Lincoln about 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The son was uninjured.

The elder Pierce, however, suffered slight bruises and cuts either while removing his wife from the wrecked car or when he suddenly applied the brakes to his own car.

LINCOLN DAYS TO SHOW CITY'S BIG ADVANTAGES

dow displays have been arranged and buyers have combed the market for new and attractive merchandise which can be featured during "Lincoln Days" as the outstanding values of the year.

New Train On Display.

The thousands of out of town people who will come here for "Lincoln Days" are being issued a special invitation to inspect the "Zephyr," crack Burlington train which will be on display at the depot from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Tuesday. It has been predicted by officials that 40,000 people, the maximum that can be shown through the train during the 14 hour period, will view the revolutionary rail unit.

Another spectacular event for the thousands who will come here for "Lincoln Days" is the R. O. T. C. competition which will be held at the university Wednesday afternoon. Downtown crowds Wednesday will thrill to the music of the 120 piece R. O. T. C. band, which will parade down O street at 2 p. m.

Two Conventions Here.

Two important conventions which will attract several hundred visitors to each meeting will be held here during "Lincoln Days," the Nebraska Dental society and the Nebraska Medical society.

The special committee of the retail trade subdivision of the chamber of commerce which has been in charge of plans for the event consists of: Charles Simon, chairman; Tom Healey, Jay Pulis, C. E. Swanson, and G. A. Willming.

POLICE BATTLE STRIKE RIOTERS AT MINNEAPOLIS

C. Thomas stores headquarters, when an army of nearly 400 strikers blocked the Thomas garage. They stoned two trucks, injuring the two drivers. Another riot call sounded at police headquarters and reserves raced to the scene. Once more the strikers were beaten back.

Streets Opened To Trucks.

As these and other battles went on, special deputies and squads of police opened up county highways and city streets to other commercial trucks and for the first time in four days gasoline, foodstuffs, much needed bread and many other lines of merchandise moved out of warehouses and off farms into stores whose stocks were low.

In other instances of violence a hotel proprietor, Charles Beery, was slugged as he attempted to drive supplies to his hotel.

An obstacle to a possible truce in the strike, which involves 5,000 drivers who demand union recognition, closed shop and wage adjustment, was seen in an ultimatum issued by strike leaders that they would halt parleys until police withdrew and gave up efforts to convoy trucks.

About People

Celebrities Are Weekend Guests Here

Russell Crouse, Writer, And F. W. Vreeland, Artist, Visitors.

INTERESTING people are dotting the social horizon this weekend—Any number of flower show celebrities and enthusiasts are here, coming from all directions—And in addition to these are folks, some from the east coast and some from the west, whose names are news.

RUSSELL CROUSE, for instance, came from New York to be with his sister, Mrs. Charles A. Wilson, on her birthday. Mr. Crouse has established quite a reputation in the newspaper and literary fields, and has taken a fling, and a very successful one at that, at playwriting.

• • •

THEN FROM THE WEST coast —Hollywood—came Francis W. Vreeland and Mrs. Vreeland, to spend the weekend with Mrs. W. M. Morning. Mr. Vreeland, who in his very young days resided in Seward, has gained recognition as an artist. His work has quite a moderen trend which is especially popular these days. He is a former president of the Hollywood Art association.

This morning, Mrs. Morning entertained a group of friends at breakfast as a courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Vreeland, and was a luncheon hostess in their honor at the University club at 1 o'clock.

• • •

ORCHIDS TO MRS. Albert Koenig for being a good pinochle player. She walked into her favorite beauty shop Friday where one of her friends, Mrs. Carl Weil, was having a permanent. While Mrs. Koenig was under the dryer and while Mrs. Weil was having her permanent, they played pinochle.

A shampoo, a wave, and luncheon were the stakes. Mrs. Koenig won the shampoo and wave, but lost the last game which was to have paid for her luncheon.

• • •

FAMOUS WORDS FROM a grandfaher—Former Congressman A. W. Jefferis of Omaha, has plans for his brand new grandson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Hawke. Mr. Jefferis says that he has arranged for the young man to play fullback on the Michigan football squad a few years hence—but the parents have other ideas—they think Nebraska is quite all right.

COMPLIMENTING MRS. Clarke Rogers of Jefferson City, Tenn., who is the house guest of Coach and Mrs. D. X. Bible, Mrs. Bob Russell will be hostess at a bridge party of two tables next Friday afternoon at her home, 1900 B street.

WILBUR HUMMELS GUESTS AT SEVERAL AFFAIRS

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Hummel, whose marriage was a recent event, will be honored at dinner Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Keller at their home, 1229 H street. Pink and white are to be combined for the table of eight covers.

In courtesy to Mrs. Hummel, Mrs. Edwin T. Erickson is entertaining at an evening party Saturday at her home in the Blancile apartments. Twelve friends have been bidden for bridge. Mrs. Hummel is to be given a miscellaneous shower.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Hummel, Mr. and Mrs. Erickson were host and hostess at dinner Wednesday evening at dinner at their home. Pink and green were introduced into the appointments for the dinner table, which had a centerpiece of spring flowers. The six spent the after-dinner hours with cards.

OMAHA ALUMNAE TO ATTEND LUNCHEON

LITTLE PROMISE OF DROUTH RELIEF

WASHINGTON, May 19 — (AP) — The weather bureau today offered but little promise of drouth relief, forecasting only light rains in midwestern and north central states.

Probably showers were forecast during the next 24 hours in scattered sections of North Dakota, extreme eastern South Dakota, extreme northern Iowa, central and northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan. The bureau said they would be "very light and local."

mass from the walls at the side of the floor inward until they come nearly together, leaving a six foot gap which leads into the second section where vase and bowl arrangements and table displays were arranged on long tables. At the sides of the north half of the floor are the delicately beautiful Junior League table arrangements for all social occasions which are as follows:

Display Table Services.

Blue breakfast, by Mrs. William Aitken; May breakfast, Mrs. Victor Jouvenat; formal dinner service, Mrs. Harry Grainger; Spode luncheon service, Mrs. Paul Ludwick and Mrs. Al Miller; Wedgewood dinner service, Mrs. Carl Olson; New England breakfast, Mrs. Richard Spangler; Italian breakfast, Mrs. Ed Gardner and Mrs. Giles Henkle; Russian luncheon, Betty Everett; Copper buffet supper, Mrs. Lyle Holland and Mrs. John Campbell; French pottery luncheon, Mrs. Philip Watkins and Mrs. Willard Folsom.

In the center of the north half of the coliseum is a 60 foot pool, set off by sod and rows of blooming iris with a red brick terrace. It was built by Robert Danielson and Gordon Wyland and leads up to the stage, which is covered with sod and has a background of evergreens which merge toward the rear center of the stage where a gay canopy shelters easy canvas rest chairs.

The main displays of iris and all oher types of flowers which bloom during April, May and June, are exhibited on three-tiered tables geometrically arranged at the south half of the coliseum. Here are seen every type of flower from tulips which bloom early in April to roses which bloom late in June. Mrs. W. F. Day, vice president of the Lincoln Garden club, said it is the most varied and most elaborate display of flowers in the history of the shows here and that the advanced season is an important factor. Mrs. A. C. Nelson, president of the Lincoln Garden club, is general manager for the show.

Show Officials

Officers and committees which are playing an important part in the great show are:

American Iris society: J. C. Wister, Philadelphia, president; Dr. H. H. Everett, Lincoln, vice president; B. Y. Morrison, Takoma Park, D. C., secretary; and Richardson Wright, New York City, treasurer.

Garden Club of Lincoln: Mrs. A. C. Nelson, president; Mrs. W. F. Day, vice president; L. M. Gates, treasurer; Mrs. F. R. Woodring, secretary.

Show committee chairmen: Mrs. A. C. Nelson, general manager; C. C. Wiggans, section manager in charge of Iris; Mrs. L. E. Mumford, section manager in charge of peonies and garden flowers; Mrs. W. F. Day, section manager in charge of arrangements; Mrs. J. S. Wishart, section manager in charge of gardens; Mrs. C. B. Towle, entertainment; Mrs. T. E. Calvert, hospitality; L. M. Gates, information; Mrs. W. F. Day, publicity; Mrs. F. R. Woodring, registration and entry.

The whole interior of the coliseum is a maze of gardens, shadow boxes, terraces, table arrangements, interiors, occasional tables, wayside gardens and marts. Among the exhibits are the following:

Show Moonlight Garden.

Moonlight garden: Built by the Lincoln Garden club. It has a white tile path along a stone terrace with a juniper background and a small reflecting pool at back center. The entrance to it is through a dainty white trellis and white bellis daisies and sweet alysums skirt the front of the terrace while at the rear are tall, pale white Sass iris.

race while at the rear are tall, pale white

Tropical display: By the Lincoln park department. This is a huge collection of tropical plants of all sizes and descriptions.

Alpine garden: Built by Jennings B. Haggerty, this amazing exhibit is one of the largest in the group. It is a delicate riot of Alpine blossoms including rare hardy cyclamen which has grown outside for the first time this year. Also there are shooting stars and most other types of flowers which grow in high altitudes set into a gorgeous rock garden and touched off with evergreens.

Conservation garden: By the Izaak Walton league. This display is in the rustic manner with a quaint pole fence, a great hollow stump and different types of deciduous trees footed by a heavy sod and forming a pretty woodland scene.

Give Continental Touch.

Wayside market: This pretty garden display is a mass of flowers—every type sold on the wayside markets so common on the European continent and are arranged against an evergreen background. A Sicilian market cart is one of the features of the display.

Iris gardens: There are six entrancingly lovely little iris gardens in natural settings which grace different spots on the coliseum floor. They are built by the Lincoln Garden club and have irises in a myriad of different colors flanked by pansies.

Corner wall garden: This display, elegant in its charming simplicity, is by Miller & Paine. It is a garden corner with vine-flecked walls and exquisite garden furniture of a classical adaptation.

Sun Dial Features Garden.

Formal garden: By the Lincoln Floral company; is a formal garden centered by a sun dial to which four gray crushed-rock pathways lead. It is supplemented by a combination of pale and deep rose petunias which harmonize with ferns and gray foliage plants.

Garden: The Eiche Floral company shows a delightfully restful scene with a vine-draped trellis and a border of rose-colored petunias with gray foliage at the front.

Terrace garden: This exhibit by Gold & Co. is a rainbow of iris against a red-tile terrace and sodded, evergreened background.

Garden: The Wruka greenhouses have a lovely and restful display in gray and lavender against a green background touched off by rows of petunias.

Bungalow entrance: The Williams Nursery erected this exhibit, the most striking feature of which is the group of 30-foot white pines and a huge blue spruce. Window boxes and a pretty lawn and shrubbery flank the bungalow's entrance.

Dr. Everett Shows Iris.

Lily garden: Miss Bertha White's exhibit of regal and Easter lilies is a polished display in a tiney nook with a border of pale pink roses.

Rock garden: The Nebraska Nurseries exhibit is a marvelously intricate rock garden which is a study in plant harmony with shrubbery and rock plants of all types in a rocky setting with a little pool at the foot of a 15-foot embankment of botanical loveliness.

Interior: A series of [illegible] breakfast nook in green [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible].

Terrace entrance: By [illegible]. The terrace entrance to a [illegible] garden [illegible] with terrace [illegible] and lattice-windows opening off the sun room.

Refreshment nook: Hardy's scene is a formal garden [illegible] exhibit where all colors harmonize with impressive exactness. A huge red and white parasol spreads over a garden table furnished with dishes in harmonizing colors.

Window garden: This display by Perry McEntire Lumber company features climbing roses, pansies and a hardy border.

Flower borders: By Kuhner the Florist and C. F. Tanner were touchingly soft and harmonic.

Garden: Haney's store exhibited a garden with a rustic setting.

The table arrangements in the north half of the coliseum were featured with new arrangements this year. A screen arrangement covered with light tan monk's cloth formed a background for low and tall vase and low bowl exhibits. A new class was that of miniature displays and the exhibits entered here were amazing combinations of tiny and fragile blossoms.

Russell Crouse, Noted Playwright, Tells of Broadway On Visit Here; Depression No Longer Popular Topic

"Oh, yes, I'll want you to tell me something more about Walter Winchell, Corey Ford, and—"

It isn't every day a successful New York playright and author comes to Lincoln, and when that playright and author happens to be one's own brother, who wouldn't ply him with questions?

Visits Mrs. C. A. Wilson.

And Russell Crouse, here for a flying visit with his sister, Mrs. C. A. Wilson, responded to interrogations both of the sister and an interviewer with such engaging glimpses of the happenings and personalities of the theatrical world that Broadway was brought right into Mrs. Wilsons' apartment at the Lincoln hotel Saturday morning.

Mr. Crouses' latest success is the musical comedy, "Hold Your Horses," which starred Joe Cook, and has just finished a 30-week run, fifteen of which were at the Winter Garden theater in New York. Mr. Crouse wrote "Hold Your Horses" in collaboration with Corey Ford.

"Just now I'm working on a musical show with Heywood Broun and am also dramatizing a mystery story," the genial young playwright announced. On the side, he handles publicity for the Theater guild. Up until two years ago, Mr. Crouse also ran a humorous column, called "Left at the Post," in the New York Evening Post, but he found this interfered too much with his writing of books and plays.

Depression Talk Ended.

In an aside from the conversation on the theater, Mr. Crouse stated little talk is heard any more in New York about the "depression." "Everyone seems to feel conditions are improving. From day to day, however, New York reacts in which ever way the stock market goes. The market is everything there," he declared.

The theater has shown a rapid come back in New York, and indications are that the better companies will be seen more and more on road tour through the country, the playwright declared. "Producers spoiled their own road business years ago when they sent out third and fourth rate companies," he said.

"Now they have learned a lesson, as shown by last winter's tour of Katharine Cornell and other top notchers. Next winter Helen Hayes will play in forty-four cities and George Cohan in sixty."

Mr. Crouse credits Ibsen and O'Neill with revolutionizing the theater. "They made it possible to bring down the curtain on a tragic ending. It is no longer necessary to close with a love clinch, or the 'Mama Loves Papa' sort of thing," he declared.

Names don't count for much on Broadway, according to the New York visitor. "There was no bigger name than Katharine Hepburn, and yet she flopped terribly in 'The Lake'," he pointed out.

"Isn't she a good actress then," Mrs. Wilson asked.

"Not on the stage," her brother answered. "I think she will be sometime just as she is a real actress in the movies now. On the stage it is necessary to hold the audience for two hours instead of a few minutes. It doesn't stand to reason Katharine Hepburn should acquire in two years a finish which it took Helen Hayes many years to gain."

Reminiscing of their childhood days at Findlay, Ohio, Mr Crouse and Mrs. Wilson recalled their postman was Marilyn Miller's father. "I didn't know Marilyn then, but she and I have since talked about going back to visit Findlay together. "We've said we were going to engage a coach and four horses and drive through the old home town in style," Mr. Crouse laughed.

Many Friends In Movies.

Many of the playright's friends are now in the movies, including Ruby Keeler and Ted Healey, who had leading roles a few years ago in Mr. Crouse's play, "The Gang's All Here." But Mr. Crouse doesn't want to go to Hollywood to write "unless it becomes necessary."

He formerly tried to write a book each year, but "I've stopped that until people start buying again," he said. The young playright has done some work with Corey Ford on radio skits, but feels the radio is still in it's infancy. "The radio can't really get across until the stars develop a characterization designed chiefly for the ear. Gracie Allen is the best on the air now in my judgment. She's never out of character," Mr. Crouse commented.

Arriving here only Saturday morning, Mr. Crouse said he would have to fly back to New York Sunday. It is his first visit to Lincoln in six years.

GOVERNMENT IS OVERTHROWN BY BULGARIAN ARMY

d'etat went like clockwork. Not only did the military move with precision in Sofia, but they operated equally smoothly in similar fashion throughout the provincial cities.

The new government issued a manifesto, announcing the creation of an "authority" government "independent of political passions."

There will be no parliament from now on and even the mayors of Bulgaria cities will be appointed from the capital.

This puts an end to municipal elections which in past years have often embarrassed the government by returning a huge communist vote.

Mayor of Sofia Ousted.

The mayor of Sofia was dismissed from office summarily.

A manifesto addressed to the nation attributed the change in government to a complete failure of the system of party government as the result of the extreme splitting up of political groups into internal struggles and political quarrels.

The announcement said this situation sowed the seeds of trouble, demoralized the masses of the people, and hampered the moral functioning of the institution of the state.

MORE PETITIONS FOR JURGENSEN

Friends Would Put Him In Race For Morehead's Seat.

Many political observers are becoming convinced that Lieut. Gov. Walter H. Jurgensen has the idea seriously in mind to abandon his candidacy for renomination to the office he now holds and run instead for first district congressman in the August democratic primary.

Two more petitions to have Jurgensen's name placed on the ballot for national representative reached the secretary of state's office Saturday, making about half a dozen that have been filed in his behalf. One came from Weeping Water, where Ralph Murphy circulated it; the other was sent in by George Walters of Wahoo.

These tactics are the same as those being used to place State Engineer Roy Cochran in the democratic primary race for governor. In Cochran's case the movement has gone considerably further, with petitions already on file from 18 or 20 counties and more coming in nearly every day. Two were received Saturday from Adams and Pawnee counties.

Jurgensen has said nothing publicly to dispel the notion he may switch from lieutenant governor to congress, and this is taken as a good indication of what he probably has in mind. It is not believed his friends would be taking the trouble to get petitions signed up and presented without good reason to believe he will ultimately accept.

The decision of Congressman Morehead not to seek re-election was announced after Jurgensen had refiled for lieutenant governor and changed the situation materially for the latter, who had previously given some attention to the congressional possibilities.

Four filings for the state legislature were made Saturday, from as many districts. They are:

Senate—W. F. Dunbar, Comstock, 23rd district, dem.; C. E. Samuelson, Hildreth, 27th district, dem.

House—H. J. Liberski, Elyria, 77th district, dem.; M. E. Rasdal, Ogallala, 94th district, rep.

Rhoades For Congress.

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—District Judge Herbert Rhoades of Omaha today sent to the secretary of state his filing for the republican nomination for congress in the second district. Judge Rhoades served as county attorney of Burt county for 12 years, was a member of the state constitutional convention of 1919, was elected to the state senate in 1921 and has been on the bench of the fourth judicial district seven years.

Iowa Buying Liquor

DES MOINES, May 19—(AP)—Purchase of $115,000 worth of liquor, bringing the total purchase to date to $203,000, was completed today by the state liquor commission.

The largest of the purchases announced today by Chairman H. M. Cooper of the commission was that of 2,200 cases of assorted brands of old whisky, straight whisky and blended whisky. The commission also purchased 2,500 cases of imported wines and other liquors.

NO SANTA CLAUS STAMPS.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)—There is to be no Santa Claus stamp after all. It developed today that Postmaster General Farley was joking the other day when he said the department planned to issue a Santa Claus stamp to commemorate Christmas.

Complaint To Be Filed Against Smith, Crandall

Two Indiana Men Must Face Charges Possessing Short Wave Car Radio.

Charges of possessing a car radio capable of receiving Lincoln police calls will be filed against R. J. Smith, 22, and Philip Crandall, 26, both of Gary, Ind., Capt. Paul Shively said Saturday. The complaint, Captain Shively said, will be filed under the city ordinance which forbids ownership of such a radio receiver.

The city, he said, will also attempt to confiscate the receiver by declaring it a nuisance. Since the passing of the ordinance last fall, the case is the first to come to the attention of the police department.

Smith and Crandall were arrested early Friday morning at a Havelock hotel after they purchased the radio in Omaha. They had previously attempted to buy a short-wave car radio in Lincoln, police said.

Shotwell Case Is For Trial Monday

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—Remanded to the District court here recently by the Supreme court, the suit filed by Mrs. Margaret Shotwell of Omaha, asking $50,000 from the estate of the late W. W. Hoagland, Omaha lumberman, is scheduled for trial here Monday. Mrs. Shotwell is to be allowed a jury trial on her claim that Hoagland gave her a note for the sum she seeks. The claim was denied in County court here and was later ruled out in District court.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Two men, one Officer Hamill and the other apparently the politician and contractor, Pierre Dufresne, have been found shot to death in Dufresne's Powhatan Terrace house. Sergeant Harper, in charge, had left Dufresne drunk in his apartment at the Austerlitz a short while before, where they had discussed a series of threatening letters the contractor had received. Harper leaves to drive downtown, giving orders that no one shall disturb the snow about the Dufresne house.

Chapter 10.
THE AUSTERLITZ.

Doyle had gone to a bench in the hall and sat down. He knew that it would be useless to try any questions on the Detective-Sergeant at this stage of the game. He lit a cigaret, and unfolded the evening paper he had been carrying in his overcoat pocket. Whistling softly to himself, he turned to the society columns. Harper went outside with Connally. The portico light shone down over the curved front steps and the white, unbroken blanket of snow that covered the lawn.

"Use my footprints as a guide for the path," Harper directed. "Make it about a foot wide and pile the snow neatly beside it. Don't scatter it around haphazardly." He went down the left curve of the steps and along the left side of the walk, clear of the other prints. Connally began to ply his shovel.

The official car, in which Harper had come from Headquarters to the house on Powhatan Terrace, stood at the curb, the uniformed chauffeur at the wheel.

"How fast can you get back in to town?" Harper asked as he got in.

"Oh, about twelve minutes, or fifteen. Where do you want to go, Sergeant?"

"The Austerlitz."

With the siren sounding, they went plunging on as speedily as was possible with the streets so snow-laden and the visibility so poor. But the chauffeur's most expert efforts could not make good his estimate, for it took him exactly twenty-two minutes to reach the Austerlitz.

The detective walked through the ornate lobby and went to the marble-fronted desk. The night manager and his assistant, both of whom had been introduced to him earlier in the evening, greeted him.

"You do as I say, Andrews!"

"Has everything been quiet?" he asked.

The manager nodded. "All serene, Sergeant. It's not very likely that we'll have any trouble in a place like this."

Harper turned away and walked over to the secluded corner where "Camera Eye" Jacoby had ensconced himself, quietly watching from behind a spread newspaper. "How's everything, Jacoby?"

"All quiet along the Potomac, Sergeant."

Harper crossed the lobby and stepped into an elevator. As the doors slid open and Harper emerged on the twenty-eighth floor, the two detectives on guard there turned to see who had arrived. Markison was one of them, the other a Central District man whose face Harper recognized, but whose name he did not know.

TAKES UP NRA PROBLEMS

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—To help clear up NRA problems by conferences with labor, consumers and business groups in western Nebraska, H. T. Williamson, executive assistant to State NRA Director Metcalfe, will address a series of meetings next week. Wednesday he will be in North Platte; Thursday at Sidney, Friday and Saturday at Scottsbluff and Gering. On May 28 and 29 he will go to Alliance and Chadron.

Reproductions of fine genuine Orientals

●●● by Bigelow weavers

WITH fine rugs like these you buy lasting value. Lively wools go into these yarns which are the marvel of dyers' art, so truly do they reproduce the ancient craft of handiwork and design.

Approximately 9x12 Feet Before Washing

Luxuriously rich, lustrous finish which is gained through a special washing process. Thick pile gives a heavy rug that lies flat on the floor. The beautiful colors harmonize with modern and period furnishings. Note they are woven after the manner of true orientals with the pattern showing through on the back, and finished with warp fringe. SEVEN PATTERNS with popular decorative grounds of rose, mulberry, blue and rust.

SMALL THROW RUGS TO MATCH
2 ft. 2 in. x 4 ft. 2 in. are only 7.50

Room sizes (approximately 9x12 feet) are 64.50

THE SHARP CLAW.

MORE remarkable than the announcement from Washington of an unofficial character that no effort would be made to have congress re-enact the licensing provision of the NRA is the fact it never has been utilized.

Under the original legislation establishing the NRA, the licensing provision was effective for but a year. It automatically expired, unless renewed by congress. Through it, the government acquired direct control of industry, for the clause empowered it to require every unit of industry to obtain a federal license to continue operations.

It has been this clause, more than any other section of the law, which gave enemies of the NRA their ammunition. The fact it never was used was ignored. Those who were critical could point to the licensing provision and say with good effect it was a club over the heads of business which could bend business to the will of those directing the destinies of the NRA. They could say that the power to license was the power of life and death, and at various times, this charge was voiced.

It never has been revealed why the licensing provision was placed in the draft of the bill, and then never used, but it is obvious that its inclusion was more a precautionary step. The administration had no way of knowing what the economic developments might be in the months immediately following the change at Washington. It could not anticipate in advance the reaction of business. At best, the licensing plan was a temporary policy, as evidenced by the limitations placed upon its life.

But that did not suit the purpose of those endeavoring to picture Roosevelt in the role of an aspiring dictator. Every assault based upon governmental interference and control of business sought deliberately to create the impression that the licensing authority was permanent, that it was and had been utilized, and that there had been flagrant abuses. It was the real heart of Colonel McCormick's "gallant" charge to preserve the freedom of the American press. Without the use of the licensing power, the press was in no danger. It made no difference to Colonel McCormick it was not contemplated to invoke it. It gave him a chance to yell, and yell he did right lustily. It has given all who wanted a chance to find fault an opportunity to criticise, and there will be no tears when it dies an automatic death. It has been called the sharp claw of the NRA. Well, it is to be clipped without ever having been bared. There is a measure of poetic justice in its death, for it will deprive those who, for one reason and another, were engaged in a campaign which could serve only to arouse fears.

It isn't then the sharp claw of the NRA which is being clipped. It's the sharp claw of those who are hostile to the NRA and who have been engaged in decrying it, in deriding it, in holding it up to contempt and to ridicule. They could not do more than express a fear of what might be done. Yet so long as it was possible for them to point to the licensing provision, it gave them talking ground. The administration is wise in permitting the temporary feature of the NRA to collapse. It is wise to rely more upon the voluntary, co-operative spirit of the American people, rather than to attempt compulsion. It has been receiving amazing support, and the results are more than satisfactory.

But for the sake of keeping the record straight against those engaged in building scare crows, it should be noted that an unused section of the NRA granting government the right to license business is about to expire. Surely Colonel McCormick will sleep much more soundly now.

THE FULL PRICE.

JUSTICE honors itself by giving Fred Grigware, who twenty-five years ago escaped from the Leavenworth prison, his freedom. He fought his way back to respectability and usefulness. It was no flash in the pan in his case. He had been tested by an ample span of years to demonstrate the folly of his youth was repented, and the ambition of his maturity a life of industry and sobriety.

Grigware's freedom came from a Canadian judge where the conceptions of law are given the sternest application. It was not sentimentality which won for him. Had Grigware been anything but the man he is, the fact he has a wife and family would have been unavailing. It was his record as a kindly, a neighborly, a thoughtful, and a highly respected citizen which won recognition for him.

Justice fills a dual role. The primary object of law enforcement under conditions now prevalent must be punishment for law violation. The first requirements overshadow the other goal of rescuing the criminally inclined from lawlessness, but in rare, exceptional cases, such as Grigware's the second purpose of the administration of justice must not be blotted out

REPUBLICAN STRATEGY

AN OMAHA man returning from a trip over the state during which he made a number of addresses on taxation matters, says that he found the faith of the people in Roosevelt is undiminished. This should cause no surprise, for everyone knows that this is the case within the circle of his own acquaintances. He knows that everyone that ever was with the president is still with him; yet in spite of this fact he hears rumors and reports to the effect that a tremendous revolt is in progress at some other point, or that this class or that class is up in arms and that the defection is startling.

It is all a part of the plot to create apprehension and to disturb that confidence which is so essential to recovery. Republicans, communists and other opponents of the administration know that nothing can prevent another overwhelming democratic victory next November if the return of prosperity is not retarded, and they furthermore know that the only way it can be held back is through loss of confidence in the plans of Roosevelt and his associates.

The speeches of the party leaders in congress and elsewhere indicate the trend of their strategy and the whispering, the innuendo and the not infrequent open statements confirm the conclusion arrived at. It is a despicable plan, but it seems to be the only one available. All of the talk about unconstitutionality, about dictatorship and the departure from American principles and traditions is hooey and hasn't had the slightest effect, as is well known to those engaged in it. It is just whistling against the wind.

So the only recourse is to destroy confidence; to make the people believe that the Roosevelt policies will not work out and that a collapse is just around the corner. As a matter of fact it is "just around the corner" in the same manner that Hoover's prosperity occupied that position. The corner around which the collapse is loitering is as far away as was the hiding place of Herbert's prosperity.

Politics causes many people who engage in the game to consider that the end justifies any means and that any practice is allowable when offices are at stake. The mass of the people, however, do not believe in this gospel and are certain to show their resentment when they learn that attempt is being made to mislead them.

NEBRASKA ON GUARD

NEBRASKA'S congressional delegation at Washington has a new problem on its hands, as a result of the Jones-Costigan bill affecting the sugar beet industry. Under its provisions, the American beet crop was limited to 1,552,000 tons, which was arrived at on the basis of production over the last five-year period, and which provides for a reduction in the total output. Naturally, the beet growers of the neighboring states of Nebraska, Wyoming, and Colorado, which contribute a large portion of the crop, assumed the enforced reduction would be applied equitably to all areas.

They have awakened to a threat of a proposal put forward by beet growers in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and Wisconsin—which, in effect, would enable those states to retain their present acreage practically while Nebraska, Colorado, and Wyoming would be cut 14 percent.

The importance of the beet industry to Nebraska can not be overemphasized. It is a source of a very considerable income in the upper Platte valley to the farmers of that region, and the factories maintained there provide employment for a large number of people. The Nebraska delegation at Washington should leave no stone unturned to see that this move on behalf of the lake states is defeated. It is so patently unfair that it would seem that the proposal should not be given serious consideration by those responsible for the administration of the act. Advices from Washington, however, indicate the situation justifies quick and determined action on the part of the Nebraska delegation.

ONE EFFECT OF DROUTH

THE old saying that "one man's meat is another's poison" finds an illustration in the effects of the widespread drouth on milk and cream production.

With pastures drying up over a great area of the middlewest and forage crops greatly reduced, the supply of milk has been much curtailed already, and farmers are losing a part of the income they ordinarily receive from its sale. This in turn has cut down the output of butter.

The creamery industry, however, stands to benefit from the falling off in volume of new supplies, because it has on hand an enormous surplus of butter accumulated during the past year. The present shortage, in the face of a steady consuming demand, enables them to reduce their warehouse stocks and thus improve the outlook for future business.

Last winter there was 80,000,000 pounds of butter in storage in the United States—the greatest amount ever known. As a result that commodity became a virtual drug on the market and producers were making little or no profit on it, or even losing money. Since the drouth developed, much of this butter has been coming out of warehouses and gone into consumption at steady prices.

When normal conditions of pasturage and milk production are restored, farmers may expect to receive somewhat better prices than they realized last year, when the market was oversupplied.

A MATHEMATICAL MISCALCULATION

WHOEVER did the job of marking off parallel parking spaces on the Sixteenth street curb along the east side of Capitol square evidently did not give much consideration to the matter of how car drivers are going to get into and out of the stalls.

Each space, to be sure, is long enough for a car of average length to squeeze into; but that is all. The trouble will come when anybody wishes to run into a vacant division from the street, when automobiles are already parked on both sides of it, or to extricate his automobile from a line of machines along the curb.

The difficulty of maneuvering into and out of a parallel parking stall is well known to anybody who ever tried it. One has to have a little extra room to avoid hitting other cars in the row. This important factor seems to have been overlooked in the Sixteenth street layout.

The situation there calls for parallel parking, because of the double car tracks in the middle of the street; but people cannot be expected to pay any attention to markings on the curb which make no allowance for practical necessity. It is up to somebody to change them without delay.

ENVY NOT THIS JURY.

THE jury sitting in the case of Mrs. Fern Sankey has an unenviable task. In defense against charges of conspiring in the kidnaping of Charles Boettcher, she has raised the age old plea she was the unwilling, protesting wife of a cunning gangster, who stayed with her man, "because she loved him."

How would you like to pass judgment on that plea?

The plea itself is disarming. Love itself can be disarming. It can find apology, excuse, and makeshift for so much. It is a known fact there are women who stick by men who treat them brutally, beat them, and yet the glorifying quality of love enables them to overlook such treatment. There are mothers who see in wayward sons only the virtues which unfold before a mother's eyes, to blot out as fearful unrealities the things which others can see.

There is another view of it. Mrs. Sankey was the mother of two children. She was the protesting wife. Her most effective protest might have been to take her children, to leave a gangster husband and father, and to rebuild her life without him. Only the individual can pass on a quesion such as that. But the jury, because of the nature of the plea made, has an unenviable task on its hands.

TO CATCH A RAT.

IT IS worthy of notice that one of the federal agents engaged in ferreting out the Getzle kidnaping case in Los Angeles fell back on the old homely saying, "It takes a rat to catch a rat." He himself penned a ransom demand and sent it to Mrs. Getzle.

It produced the results he anticipated.

Within twenty-four hours, the real gang responsible for abducting Getzle became convinced another group was trying to "muscle in" on its racket as he anticipated it would. It was then a comparatively simple task to round up the real kidnapers.

Rep Rankin of Mississippi holds the all time record for attendance at congress sessions. For ten years he never missed a roll call—entitling him to a medal, or just plain sympathy.

QUESTION.
Bangor, Me.

Will you give a country preacher a brief outline of the development of Christian doctrine?

ANSWER.

It falls into a fivefold division beginning with "The Age of Apologetics," when the infant church was chiefly concerned for the defense of the faith against its pagan adversaries. Next came "The Age of Polemics," during which the church established by the Emperor Constantine's edict devoted herself to the formulation of her doctrinal system. "The Age of Systematic Theology" followed, and deserves your careful study. It was promoted by the keen and logical thinking of the scholastics, whose influence lasted from the ninth to the end of the fifteenth century. They made a praiseworthy attempt to reconcile the dogmas of faith with the dictates of reason, formulating for that purpose an all inclusive system in which the creed of the church was accepted as the one reality capable of complete rationalization.

"The Age of Conflict and Confessions" covered the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Its results showed that Protestantism was at odds not only with the Roman See, but with various groups within itself. The severity of its internal divisions is discussed in Dr. Schaff's third volume on "The Creeds of Christendom." I advise you to read not only this book, but also Professor Hagenbach's "History of Doctrine."

In the fifth period the poets entered the scene and became influential interpreters of the Christian philosophy of life. We have not yet emerged from "The Age of Criticism," but its influence and importance are on the wane. Seldom has any era felt a more profound or widespread conviction of the social and religious significance of Jesus than our era is now experiencing. The belief that individual, social, national and international safety and progress are identified with whole-hearted allegiance to His person, example and teaching exists today on an unprecedented scale. If He cannot redeem our fallen estate and direct its forces into nobler channels its evils are plainly beyond redemption.

QUESTION.
Atlanta, Ga.

My husband and I are very fond of our three children, aged fifteen, thirteen and ten, but they do not seem to respond to that love somehow. The eldest boy hates to be kissed in public and my husband has said that I overdo it. But children seem different from what I was at their age. How do you account for the change?

ANSWER.

Because they breathe the atmosphere of a new day. Your eldest son is more sophisticated at fifteen than his grandfather was at thirty, and, for that matter, the girls also are in the same status. The trend toward self-sufficiency which has always been pronounced in this country has increased in the past twenty years, with the result that outward expressions of affection are repressed in some homes to the point of extinction. Since our children see all the earth has to offer, and much which is better left unseen by them, before they leave high school, what else can we expect?

But this does not necessarily indicate an absence of genuine esteem and love. It is rather a return to the Puritanic dislike of emotionalism which characterized parents and children of a still earlier time. And in so far as it manifests belief in the reality without indulging its visible tokens too freely it is not injurious. Since your youngsters will have to confront a stern life they are wise in preparing for it.

Do not forget that deep streams run quietly. Very often the child who sits silently and reserved while a brother or sister climbs all over father on his return from work has a passionate tenderness for him which is too sacred for exhibition. Moreover the boy or girl who is the object of excessive affectionate demonstrations is being treated unkindly

I realize, of course, that that is not the intention. But babying the youngsters is too softening a process for the hardboiled society into which they will be plunged later. No child is well trained who has not learned to stand on his or her own feet and fill the appointed niche. So do not be distressed if your children practice some restraint, nor jump to the false conclusion that sentimentalism is love. Estimate their feelings toward you and your husband by their thoughtfulness, dutifulness and reaction to family problems. The normal lad often hates to be kissed after he reaches his teens. But he will come back to the real mother when he is forty and, folding her in his strong, protecting arms, say to all the world, "There never was such a mother as you."

QUESTION.
South Bend, Ind.

Will you kindly explain Christ's teaching on divorce as found in St. Matthew's Gospel, 19th chapter, third to twelfth verses?

ANSWER.

It seems beyond any reasonable doubt St. Matthew derived his account from St. Mark, but he reflects the mind of the early church at a later period. The order in St. Mark is as follows: (1) the question, (2) quotations from Deuteronomy 24, first to the third verse, (3) the answer of Jesus in which He freely quoted Genesis 2, twenty-four; (4) the argument concluded with verse 9.

The order in St. Matthew's is (1) the question, with the significant addition of the words "for every cause," (2) the quotation from Genesis; (3) the retort by listeners quoting Deuteronomy 24, first verse; (4) the reply of Jesus, stating that the Mosaic command was a concession to the people.

You should note that in St. Matthew the questioners appeal to Deuteronomy against Genesis, and that in St. Mark's Jesus appeals to Genesis against Deuteronomy. It is only in St. Matthew that we find the exceptive cause to which you refer. The whole context shows that it is contrary to the spirit of the passage and was made when divorce for adultery had already become established.

Hence many modern scholars regard the exceptive clauses as an interpolation. Clearly our Lord was here formulating an ideal of marriage for His disciples. To what extent that ideal is applicable to modern society constitutes a problem with which church and state are now wrestling. Read Archbishop Temple's "Essays in Christian Politics," commencing at page 105, and Canon Streeter on "Adventure," chapter 3. Also procure The Abingdon Bible Commentary from The Abingdon press at 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City, for a helpful discussion of the difficulties of Biblical interpretation arising in connection with these particular verses.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

MEDIC SEES INACCURACIES IN MOTION PICTURE SCENES

The dark, handsome young physician bent with knitted brow over the patient. He was going to give an injection into the vein of her arm. He put a rubber tourniquet around the arm. Then carefully he got the hypodermic needle in the vein. He shot the plunger home, injecting the medicine into the vein. And then he took off the tourniquet.

Dr Clendening

Well, it was all in the movie called "Men in White," so I guess it did not do the patient any harm, but it is worth while to point out to Clark Gable and his colleagues that they oughtn't to try to do that in real life. The trouble is that when we do it in real life we put the tourniquet on in order to allow the veins to swell up so that we can see them and get into one with the needle. As soon as we get in we take the tourniquet off before injecting the medicine—not after. Because if we did it before, the pressure of the injection would burst the vein.

There are plenty of other peculiar things in "Men in White." These features of the Hollywood development in surgery, however, could hardly do any harm because real surgeons would not do them. Where the picture did do harm was in two places.

In one they had a blubbering, shiveling doctor come in with an x-ray plate of his wife's chest and a specimen of her sputum. The sputum was examined in the laboratory and found to contain tubercle bacilli, at which the doctor, still shiveling and blubbering with bowed head left the room, the impression being that if tubercle bacilli are found in the sputum it inevitably means that the patient is going to die. Preachers of public health have tried to tell the public for 20 years that it does not mean that, and its representation on the screen undoubtedly caused a great deal of unnecessary sorrow.

The other thing was the question as to whether a patient in the hospital, a little child with diabetes who had received insulin, was going to die from insulin shock. Now, in spite of the fact that insulin is an almost magical remedy, it is sometimes very hard to get people to use it. I know of a case in which the family refused to allow the doctor to give insulin in diabetic coma and the patient died. The fear of insulin which this picture instills is totally unwarranted.

The number of doses of insulin that have been given in the last 12 years can be gathered from the fact that there are estimated to be a million diabetics in this country of whom 100,000 probably take two doses of insulin a day. This means that approximately 876,000,000 doses have been given since its invention, and the last report which I know of reports only 20 deaths from insulin, some of them being very doubtful as to whether insulin was the cause. I have seen many people with an overdose of insulin, but I have never seen anybody die from it.

When adverse propaganda is put out against so valuable a remedy which has so few dangers, who is responsible for the deaths which such ignorance causes?

The Home of the Kingfishers

Who plans a home will always find
It must be safe for peace of mind.
—Rattles The Kingfisher.

Billy Mink had found what he was looking for, a sandbank over in the Old Pasture. It was an old gravel pit. It was a deep pit, and the sides were almost straight up and down. Before Billy had time to even begin to look it over he heard a harsh rattle. He dodged out of sight. A moment later Rattles the Kingfisher appeared from the direction of the Smiling Pool and flew straight to a point at the back of that gravel pit and disappeared.

Billy Mink's eyes snapped. He could se the dark opening of a hole in the face of that bank a little way from the top, but a long way from the bottom. Even as he looked a touseled-looking head with a big stout bill appeared in the opening. Then out popped Rattles, and with his harsh call flew off toward the Smiling Pool. Billy grinned. He would not have to hunt for that nest. He knew now exactly where it was.

Hardly had Rattles disappeared when out came Mrs. Rattles and flew off in the same direction. Billy Mink wasted no time. He popped out of his hiding place and ran into the gravel pit. At the bottom of the bank right beneath that hole he sat up and studied that hole. He didn't like what he saw. That bank was almost straight up and down, and he suspected that that sand would slip and slide under his feet if he tried to climb it.

Perhaps he could reach that hole from the top of the bank. He studied this and didn't like the looks of it any better. The edge of the bank overhung. He couldn't tell from down there just how much the edge overhung, but it didn't look encouraging. Well, he would try to get up that bank first, and if he found that he couldn't he would ge around and see what could be done from the top. He was just preparing to try to scramble up when he heard the harsh voice of Rattles. He was returning from the Smiling Pool. Billy darted back to his former hiding place. He had no desire to be found trying to climb that bank. It would be difficult enough at best, and never in the world could he manage to get up there and at the same time dodge the stout bills of those Kingfishers.

"I'll have to be patient," muttered Billy. "I've got to wait until the way is clear. I don't see what they wanted to make their home in such a place for."

Rattles could have told him why. He and Mrs. Rattles had done a lot of looking about before they decided where they would make their home. Billy would have been surprised to learn how far up and down the Big River they had flown, carefully examining every likely looking bank. Rattles had wanted to build in the same bank they had built in the year before, but there were certain reasons why Mrs. Rattles didn't want to build there, and she flatly refused to consider it. None of the other banks suited her, and Rattles was beginning to be fearful that they might have to go to another section altogether, a place too far for him to visit the Smiling pool every day, when one morning Mrs. Rattles joined him in the Big Hickory, where from his favorite perch he was watching for a minnow in the water below.

Even as he looked a touseled looking head with a big stout bill, appeared in the opening

"Never mind that fish. Come with me," said she.

"Where?" asked Rattles, never taking his eyes from the water.

"To begin work on our new home. It is high time it was started," said she.

Rattles forgot that he was watching for a fish. "Do you mean to say that at least you have found a place to suit you?" he demanded.

"I have found the place where we are going to build. Come along," she replied shortly, and took to her wings.

There was nothing for Rattles to do but follow. She led the way down the Laughing Brook for a short distance, then turned straight across the Green Meadows toward the Old Pasture. Rattles tried to catch up with her. He didn't like the idea of leaving the water. He couldn't imagine where she could be leading him. But he didn't catch up with her until they reached the gravel pit. She alighted on a stub projecting over the top.

"What do you think of this?" she demanded.

"I don't think much of it," replied Rattles.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

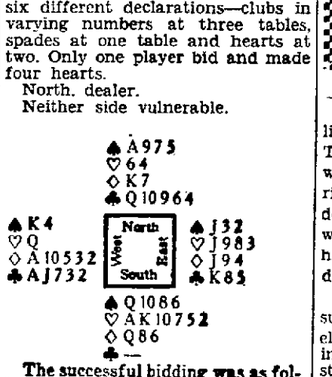

How to Play and How to Win

COMPARING RESULTS.

Duplicate play is extremely interesting from the standpoint of the student if for no other reason than for the varying final contracts reached by players holding the same cards. No matter how much bidding may become standardized, the human equation still plays a major role in the game of contract, and rightly so.

The hand given below was played at six tables of duplicate and at six different declarations—clubs in varying numbers at three tables, spades at one table and hearts at two. Only one player bid and made four hearts.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The successful bidding was as follows:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	2 ♣
2 N T	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bid of two no trump was perhaps not the best, but no doubt was a contributing factor in determining south to bid for game.

West had a rather difficult choice of opening leads, but for some reason eventually decided on the opening of the deuce of clubs—certainly unconventional when the ace and a five-card suit are held. The nine was played from dummy, the king by east, and the declarer ruffed with the deuce. It is, of course, apparent that a diamond probably must be trumped later in the play, so the six was led. West won with the ace, and the declarer decided to unblock by playing the king, as he felt he might want a diamond entry to lead spades, while he was certain of ability to ruff the losing diamond. West now led the queen of hearts. This suggested to south that east might hold four to the knave. If this were so, the contract could be made only by an end-play. The king of hearts won, the queen of diamonds was laid down, and the last diamond ruffed in dummy. A small club was led and ruffed with the five; then the queen of spades was led, upon which west played the king and which was won with the ace in dummy. The six of clubs was now led and ruffed with the seven. East was now put in the lead with the spade ten. He returned his last spade and south won and continued the suit. At the eleventh trick, east with three trumps remaining, was forced to ruff, and then he had no option but to concede to south the last two tricks.

The play is interesting and in the main accurate—the bidding, possibly over-ambitious.

Today's Question.

My partner, not vulnerable, has opened the bidding with four spades and the next hand has passed. I hold:

♠ — ♡ A K Q 7 6 5 4 ◇ 8 7 4 ♣ 7 5 3

What should I bid?

Answer: Pass. Your partner's opening four-spade bid is a preemptive bid, probably made to shut out an opposing heart bid. Even though you hold the heart, there is no point in taking him out. His spade suit may be absolutely useless to you particularly if he does not hold the ace. On the other hand, if he has one heart in his hand, your hearts should prove of assistance. There is no sense in bidding five hearts and probably getting the bidding up one trick too high.

Murder at Mocking House

BY WALTER C. BROWN.

The topmost floor of the Austerlitz was divided between two suites. The one to the left of the elevators was Dufresne's, the one to the right that of the Hon Royal Sanders, financier and ex-Senator, who was abroad at this time. His suite had been closed for months and the doors locked and sealed.

A corridor separated the two suites, running diagonally from the elevators for a distance, then turning right at a slight angle, and straightening again to finish in a culdesac, a brace of high, deep windows, from which fell a sheer drop to the street, far below.

Markison, surprised, got up quickly. "I didn't expect to see you back here tonight, Sergeant. Nothing wrong, is there?"

"Plenty, but I'll tell you about that later. Have you anything to report?"

"Not a thing. Nobody has come up, nobody has gone down. The elevators haven't stopped at this floor once since you left. It has been as quiet as a graveyard."

Harper pressed the bell at the door to Dufresne's suite. His sustained ringing brought the elderly Andrews, whose dour face registered amazement at seeing the detective again. "Has anything happened, sir?" he asked immediately.

"Where is Mr. Dufresne?"

"He's in his room, sir."

"Well, tell him that I've got to see him, at once."

"But I can't do that, sir. He's sleeping. He gave strict orders not to be disturbed for anything. The door's locked. He always locks it."

"Well then, pound on it, shout, break it down if necessary. This is important. I have no time to waste."

Andrews looked shocked at these suggestions. "But my orders, sir? I was not to disturb him before morning, not even if Mrs. Dufresne called up."

Harper looked at the stubborn old serving-man. "You do as I say, Andrews, or I'll attend to it myself."

Andrews' lean jaws clamped tight with disapproval, but he nodded grudgingly and left the room. Harper followed and came to where the butler stood, rapping and calling Dufresne's name.

"He won't answer, sir, and the door's locked."

"Did he lock himself in there after I left?"

"Yes, sir."

"He hasn't come out since?"

"No, sir."

"I suppose he took that bottle of brandy with him?" Harper took a hand at the pounding, and between them they raised quite a hubbub on the stout wooden panels. But there was not the slightest response from within.

The detective came to a decision. He strode over to the hotel telephone. "Hello. This is Mr. Dufresne's suite. Sergeant Harper speaking. Send a man up with the master-keys to the doors, yes—and hurry.

"Were there any telephone calls tonight?" the detective asked, while they awaited the arrival of the keys.

"One, sir."

"From whom?"

"Mrs. Dufresne."

"What did she say?"

"She wanted to talk to Mr. Dufresne."

"What did you tell her?"

"I told her that Mr. Dufresne had gone to bed."

"What did she say to that?"

Andrews fumbled around reluctantly for an answer. At last he said, 'She asked me if Mr. Dufresne had gone to bed with a bottle. I told her he had. She said 'Never mind, then,' and hung up."

Harper smiled. "That's fine, Andrews. It didn't hurt so very much, did it?"

AGAINST SNAP JUDGMENT.

How sorry would our judgments be
Did we but once another see!

A stranger stopped me yesterday
Upon the street to ask his way.

His face with dirt was thickly lined.
"Ditch digger!" popped into my mind.

"If human beings classed must be,
Then of the lowest grade is he."

Upon his chin and cheeks appeared
A full week's growth of bristly beard.

Thus leaving him I should have said:
"The spirit of that man is dead."

Within the hour as still I strolled
I saw a shop where shrubs are sold;

Roses, spireas, flowering plums,
For planting when the springtime comes;

And as that lovely place I neared
A second time that man appeared.

And in his arms a bundle great
Of climbing roses for his gate.

With other shrubs for planting round
His cherished little patch of ground.

This time as he went hurrying by
Lover of plant and bloom! thought I

Snider Brothers Are Found Not Guilty Murder; None Injured When Fire Starts In Picture House

JURORS ACQUIT YOUNG FARMERS

Freed Of Blame In the Killing of Norman Roth at Niobrara.

CENTER, Neb., May 19—(AP)—Rex and Tom Snider, Niobrara farmers, today were acquitted of a murder charge by a district court jury here. They were tried for the slaying of Norman L. Roth, 35, a neighbor, who was shot on Niobrara's main street last February 19.

The case was given to the jury about 6 p. m., Friday after Roth's widow had testified that he had not owned or carried a gun for more than eight years.

The Sniders, Rex, 30, and Tom, 21, brothers, testified they opened fire on Roth with automatic pistols after he had grabbed hold of Tom and again threatened their lives. They said Roth had threatened them several times and that they had engaged in several fights with him since 1931, when Rex was employed by a bank depositors committee to seek a horse owned by Roth and on which the bank had a mortgage.

HOTEL KEEPERS BACKING REPEAL

Association Adopts Resolution To Carry On Campaign.

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—Delegates to the 22nd annual convention of the Nebraska Hotel association today approved a resolution urging a campaign for a favorable vote on state prohibition repeal in Nebraska next November. At its closing business session the association also voted to affiliate with the Northwestern Hotel association and elected Joseph Huckins 3rd of Omaha, president to succeed A. Q. Schimmel of Lincoln.

Other new officers are John Henry, Kearney; C. B. Stephens, Grand Island; W. W. Kerr, Fairbury; Harry Keen, Omaha and Tony Schroedl, Falls City, vice presidents; I. A. Medlar, Omaha, re-elected secretary-treasurer for his twenty-second term.

The new legislative committee includes A. Q. Schimmel, Ole Oleson, Norfolk; Cecil Stratton, Grand Island; Sam Josephson, Omaha; Ralph Bryant, Hastings; L. W. Prince and Harley Conant, of Omaha.

Mrs. Joseph Huckins 3rd was elected chairman of the ladies advisory committee. Other new members include Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel, Mrs. C. B. Stephens and Mrs. Ole Oleson. E. C. Eppley of Omaha was named Nebraska representative on the national legislative committee on copyright music laws.

Lava Tool Of Indians Found Near Norfolk

L. A. Larson, McCook, a grade inspecter for the state highway department, displayed a most unusual specimen of Indian handiwork at the Star office Friday afternoon, showing a two pound stone which was uncovered six feet below the surface on a state bridge project near Norfolk last week.

The stone, of an untold age, probably was carried to Nebraska hundreds of years ago by visiting Indian tribes, he was advised by Dr. E. H. Barbour, for it is of a lava composition not native to Nebraska. How it got mixed with the sand and gravel so far below the top soil is a mystery.

It is six and a quarter inches long, and has the general appearance of a tomahawk head. The blade end is three inches across, and is unusually sharp. The butt is over an inch and a quarter across, and is well rounded.

There is no worn-away spot on the stone to indicate that it has ever been fastened to a handle as a weapon, which indicates that it probably was used as a hand tool for scraping skins or similar work.

Mr. Larson plans to loan the stone to the state historical society, so that it may be put on display.

Republicans Will Not Attempt Filibuster on Reciprocal Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, May 19— (AP) — Senate administration leaders were openly pleased today over word from the republican opposition that it would not resort to a filibuster or other delaying tactics in efforts to defeat the Roosevelt reciprocal tariff bill.

As a result, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, in charge of the bill to permit the president to negotiate tariff-bargaining compacts with other powers, predicted final passage by Thursday or Friday of next week.

When Harrison failed to obtain an agreement late yesterday to limit debate beginning some day next week, he mentioned rumors that the republicans planned to offer some 2,000 amendments to the bill.

Minority Leader McNary immediately disclaimed any such intent, however, and also assured the Mississippian no other filibuster tactics would be used.

A week-end adjournment gave the republicans time today to prepare more opposition speeches.

A. T. Hill Excavation Party Moves to Site In Franklin County

A. T. Hill, director of the state historical society museum and his party of archeologists who have been excavating prehistoric Indian villages in Webster county, have removed their operations to another site near Bloomington in Franklin county.

Ivan E. Jones, assistant superintendent of the society Saturday said Hill reported a number of important finds discovered in the Bloomington site but had not yet prepared a complete report of the work there.

BIART SUFFERS BROKEN PELVIS

Relief Director To Be Confined To Bed For Two Months.

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—State relief Director Randall Biart, injured when his car overturned near West Point, faced the prospect of spending at least two months in bed. An ambulance brought him to an Omaha hospital last night from Scribner. X-ray examination Friday revealed a broken pelvis and a possible hip fracture in addition to numerous bruises.

Dr. W. H. Betz of Omaha, who hurried to Scribner to attend Biart, described his condition as not serious. He said the relief head is already making plans to install a telephone at his bedside and conduct the state's huge relief task from the hospital. He added that Biart will have to remain in bed a minimum of eight weeks.

While driving on a gravel highway, Dr. Betz said, Biart's car skidded as he attempted to negotiate a sharp turn and crashed into a ditch, throwing him partially through a door of the car and stunning him. Passing motorists took him to the hospital.

SOLONS DISCUSS DROUTH AID FUND

Second Wheat Benefit Payments to Farmers Will Be Hastened.

WASHINGTON, May 19— (AP) — Because of extreme drouth conditions, the farm administration said today it would hasten the second wheat benefit payments which it expected to total about $27,000,000.

George E. Farrell, chief of the wheat section, said the local inspection of farms to determine compliance with contract provisions would be hastened, particularly in the drouth area, in order that second payments may be made quickly.

Plan to Ask Aid Fund.

WASHINGTON, May 19— (AP) — Fearful that funds available for immediate relief to drouth afflicted areas are inadequate, members of congress from the distressed states planned today to ask for a quick appropriation to carry on rehabilitation work this summer.

No figure was agreed upon, but Dr. H. L. Walster, extension director of the North Dakota agricultural college, estimated a minimum of $800,000,000 would be needed.

Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, who called the meeting, said an attempt probably would be made to amend the president's public works bill with a separate drouth relief appropriation.

Members present included the special house drouth committee named this week, including Representative Carpenter of Nebraska.

Senator Nye said a request probably would be made for more civilian conservation corps camps in the Dakotas to construct temporary earth dams to conserve rainfall expected in June and July.

The group also discussed the possibility of enacting bankruptcy legislation for farmers, who traditionally, have never in the past sought this kind of relief from their debts.

GIVEN SIX MONTHS.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., May 19—Virgil McCown, 24, and Harold Petty, 21, Wymore, were sentenced to six months each in the county jail by District Judge Messmore after they pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the William Riggs pool hall at Wymore.

CORTLAND, Neb., May 19—Rev. J. J. Christner, pastor of the Methodist church here, has announced he will retire from the ministry in which he has been engaged for thirty-five years. He will preach his farewell sermon May 27. He and his wife plan an extended trip to the mountains in Colorado this summer.

FILES FOR OFFICE

(Special to The Star.)

WILBER, Neb., May 19—Leslie M. Doane of Wilber has filed as a republican candidate for register of deeds.

Nebraska Towns Alphabetically Named, For Old Boston Custom

Nebraska towns along the Burlington main line from Lincoln, west, were named in accordance with Boston's Back Bay's tradition of naming streets in alphabetic order it was revealed here by Cheney C. Jones. The towns, for the most part, were designated by Thomas Doane, famous engineer who laid out the road and who later founded Doane college at Crete.

Jones, now a nationally known figure in social welfare work, who lives in Boston is a native Nebraskan. If he is more or less imbued with New England ideas and ways of doing things—which isn't readily apparent—he still retains his "Nebraska" appearance and he still thinks of Cornhuskerland as "his old home state."

Mr. Doane, the man who built the Hoosac tunnel through Hoosac mountain in the Berkshire hills of western Massachusetts, and whose discoveries revolutionized the use of explosives in tunneling, lived at Crete, Mr. Jones, who knew him personally, said.

"When Mr. Doane laid out the railroad he remembered that the Back Bay streets were given names beginning with the letters of the alphabet in sequence, at least up until they came to Massachusetts avenue, when the custom was dropped. So he named the stations along the railroad in the same manner."

"A look at the map shows that west of Lincoln one runs into these names; Burks, Crete, Dorchester, Exeter, Fairmont, Grafton, Harvard, Inman, Juniata, Kenesaw. Perhaps Mr. Doane, like the namers of Back Bay streets, gave up the custom here, but he related to me that this was the system he used to name the towns."

"Of course," Mr. Jones explained, "intermediate towns have sprung up that upset the alphabetical sequence but the original stations are probably all still here. Crete was founded when Mr. Doane arrived, but it did fit right into the scheme."

Mrs. Doubleday's Suit For $1,500,000 Against McCormick Is Settled

CHICAGO, May 19—(AP)—Settlement of the $1,500,000 breach of promise suit brought against Harold McCormick by Mrs. Rhoda Yanner Doubleday, has been announced by attorneys but they declined to comment on a report that the consideration was $100,000.

The agreement was reached last month when the socially prominent divorcee visited Chicago, but word of the arrangement was suppressed.

Mrs. Doubleday had charged that the Chicago art patron, who is chairman of the International Harvester Co., wrote her 68 letters during their supposed courtship.

Neither was in Chicago last night when the announcement was made.

PLAN MEDICAL AID IN COUNTY

Arrangements For FERA Project Here Nearly Completed.

Arrangements have been practically completed for furnishing medical services to FERA workers from federal funds in Lancaster county.

The Lancaster County Medical association recently agreed to the chief requirement of the plan, which is that the doctors accept one-half the normal fee. County Commissioner John Bennett said Saturday that conferences between the county board and state relief officials have reached the point where it is hoped the plan can be put into effect soon. The county board must make the application for the federal funds.

The fees allowed the doctors under the plan will be $1.50 per call with an allowance of 12 cents a mile for travel. The FERA patient may choose his doctor, subject to approval of the family welfare worker.

Dr. E. S. Werner, secretary of the medical association, said the doctors accepted the proposition as soon as it was placed before them by Director Biart. The 12 cents mileage fee does not apply to calls within the city limits, he said.

Drainage District Sued By Treasurer

Lincoln County Unit Said To Be In Default On Interest Payment to State.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., May 19—(AP)—Mandamus action to compel payment of interest on bonds issued by Lincoln county drainage district No. 1, serving the Hershey vicinity, has been started in District court here. The petition, drawn in Attorney General Good's office in Lincoln, was filed by County Attorney C. S. Beck in the name of State Treasurer Hall, who seeks a writ directing County Treasurer Brownfield to pay Hall $1,492, which he alleges Brownfield is withholding from the state board of educational lands and funds. This board purchased bonds from the district.

Clipped coupons for the amount of $4,080 were held by the state treasurer on March 7, he alleges, but the county treasurer failed to pay them, although he had "under his possession and control $1,492 provided by law for payment of interest coupons" at the time.

For several weeks, the drainage district officials have been gathering data preparatory to making application for an RFC loan to take up the district's debts.

STATE LAWYERS INVITE CARDOZA

Supreme Justice Expected Address Nebraska Bar Association.

WASHINGTON, May 19 —(AP)— The Nebraska State Bar association today extended to Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the Supreme court an invitation to address its state convention at Omaha, December 27.

But No Tenors

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 19— (AP)—Displeased with the way some of his men speak to erring moforists, Police Chief Paul Frey has ordered them to take vocal lessons.

"We have entirely too many biting bass voices," he told the patrolmen. "I want a squad of polite baritones."

NEBRASKA WILL OBTAIN RELIEF

Thompson Is Assured By Federal Officials of Early Help.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)— Senator Thompson of Nebraska has been assured by federal relief officials that his state will share in a proportionate extent in the drouth relief progra now being worked out.

He conferred with T. J. Edmonds of Des Moines, field representative for the federal relief administration, who was one of the representatives at the drouth conference.

Edmonds said that Rowland Haynes, Nebraska relief director, would make a personal investigation of drouth damage done in the state. Thompson was advised by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, and Col. Larence Westbrook, assistant administrator, that the work in Nebraska will be pushed along with that in adjoining states.

Northern counties of the state have been severely hit, Thompson said, and much of the winter wheat has been damaged in other sections.

GRISWOLD SPEAKS AT COMMENCEMENT

MULLEN, Neb., May 19—Dwight Griswold was the speaker Thursday night when the Hooker county high school held its commencement exercises. There were 18 graduates with Florence Fox giving the valedictory and Glena Warden the salutatory.

"Graduates should remember," said Mr. Griswold, "that a diploma is not a ticket to fame. An education teaches a person how to think and how to pursue further learning, but it will require further hard work to attain success." Mr. Griswold also pleaded with the graduates to be active in public affairs, stating that only by being informed politically, can people be saved from electing incompetents to office.

Drops Dead While Rowing On Nemaha

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 19—(AP)—Elias Kildow, 71, of Council Bluffs dropped dead last night while rowing across the Nemaha river and the boat, carrying his body, nearly was swept into the Missouri river. He had started across the river to meet his nephew, William J. Smith, who lives south of Rulo and who works at a quarry.

Smith on the other bank saw the boat drifting down stream and called to Everett Smith, another nephew of Kildow, who stripped off his clothing and swam out to bring the craft to shore. Kildow had been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. E. Smith, near Rulo for the past two weeks. The body probably will be taken to Plattsmouth, Kildow's former home, for burial.

Mussolini's Newspaper Predicts Fall of U. S. Due to Fewer Births

MILAN, Italy, May 19—(AP)—The decline and fall of the United States as a consequence of a diminishing birth rate are predicted by Premier Mussolini's privately owned newspaper the Popolo D'Italia, in an editorial published today.

Three major results are already in evidence, the paper says, first a "paralysis of energy," second a decrease in production and third decadence of agriculture.

"In their march to great achievements the American people have failed to leave their heirs behind," the article states. "This is their undoing.

"The situation now is nothing less than tragic. The crisis affecting the United States comes from a falling off in population.

"Within several generations the births and deaths will be equal and then the crumbling of America's skyscrapers will begin."

Jayhawkers Loom as 'Big Six' Track Champs

Kansas Uni. Sets Pace In Friday's Prelims To Saturday Classic

BY GREGG McBRIDE

One new record was on the books as the Big Six conference athletes met at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon for the 1934 track and field championships. The new mark, hung up during the Friday preliminaries, was in the 16-pound shot put. Elwyn Dees, Kansas' little giant, heaved the ball 50 feet 1 3-4 inches on his first toss to surpass the former record of 49 feet 11 3-4 inches set by Hugh Rhea of Nebraska in 1932.

Kansas Apparently Dominates.

Apparently ready to capture seven, possibly eight or nine, first places, the Kansas Jayhawkers, indoor champions, were prepared Saturday to extend their reign outdoors. Coach Bill Hargiss' Jayhawks had Glenn Cunningham, sensational running machine, ready to sweep the three distance events, Ed Hall defending his title in the dashes and out in front of the broad jumpers; Elwyn Dees a certainty to win the shot and Paul Harrington setting the pace in the javelin. The pole vault and high jump also found the sons of Mt. Oread well fortified. White, Coffman and Gray were ready to battle for the vault title, while McGuire was expected to pick up points in the high jump.

Sooners, Huskers Next.

If Kansas falters, Nebraska and Oklahoma were hoping to get into the championship picture. The Cornhuskers and Sooners have good all-around team strength and Nebraska swept into a title by scoring heavily in minor positions last year. The 1934 meet, however, is faster all along the line, with Kansas State, Missouri, Iowa State in the running with better teams and calculated to take a more generous helping of points.

Nebraska and Kansas each qualified 15 men during the Friday preliminaries. Oklahoma placed 14. Missouri and Kansas State each landed 11 and Iowa State had 10.

Best Prelim Performances.

Best performances during the Friday prelims:

100 yards—Heye Lambertus, Nebraska and Harold Jacobsen, Nebraska, 9.8 seconds.

220 yards—Edwin Hall, Kansas, 21.4 seconds.

440 yards—Kenneth Wessling, Iowa State, 51.1 seconds.

880 yards—Glenn Cunningham, Kansas, 1 minute 59.6 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Joe Knappenberger, Kansas State and Loyett Burke, Oklahoma, 15 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Heye Lambertus, Nebraska, 24.3 seconds.

Discus—Al Gilles, Oklahoma, 148 feet 4½ inches.

Javelin—Paul Harrington, Kansas, 194 feet 11 inches.

Broad jump—Edwin Hall, Kansas, 23 feet 11½ inches.

Friday's Preliminary Results.

Prestwick Links Tough On Yankees

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 19—(AP)—Except for Chandler Egan and Jack Westland, who have no possible cause for complaint, America's golfing brigade has decided that Prestwick's layout is much more difficult than the more widely famed St. Andrews.

Egan, the Pacific coast veteran, shot successive rounds of 69 and 72 over the par 71 course in practice yesterday for the British amateur championship, opening here Monday. Westland, making only one trip around, posted a neat 71, but the other Americans all had their troubles.

A blustery wind played havoc with most practice scores and the invaders found Prestwick's bunkers just as numerous and deep as those at St. Andrews, and rougher to boot.

That Beastly Hook.

Max Marston and Lawson Little, both of whom reported rounds of 74 and 75, were the only other Americans who posted their scores. Johnny Goodman teamed up with Little in an informal four-ball match with Jack McLean and Sam McKinlay, but the American open champion found his game had developed a serious hook and he was otherwise far off form. McLean, co-favored with Goodman for the title, had the best score, a 71.

Peru Steps Ahead On Kearney Track

KEARNEY, Neb., May 19—Peru Teachers had dethroned Kearney Teachers as N. I. A. A. track champion today. The Bobcats scored 58½ points yesterday to win the annual meet. Other scores were Wayne, 42½; Omaha U., 38; Kearney, 35. Summary:

Free Meal Refused To Gridiron Squads

Big Six faculty representatives, at their Friday meeting in Lincoln, approved the addition of golf to the intercollegiate sports calendar, but declined to approve boxing. The Big Six also plans to resume the two-mile run next fall, with the conference race being held at Kansas university the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

The proposal to introduce a modified form of football training table, the players to be given an evening meal, was rejected by the faculty men. Attorney John C. Grover of Kansas City, author of the proposal, had asked that he be permitted to address the faculty men, but they had voted down the plan prior to his appearance before the meeting.

H. D. Bergman, Iowa State, was elected chairman of the faculty representatives and S. W. Reaves, Oklahoma, was named secretary. Dr. H. H. King, Kansas State, was appointed conference representative to the National Collegiate Athletic association.

NEW LEADERS IN 'BIG TIME' BALL

Hemsley and Leslie Set Pace In Pursuit of Batting Honors.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)—Rollie Hemsley, erstwhile Cub and Pirate "playboy" and now the serious and businesslike backstop for Roger Hornsby's St. Louis Browns, swung the mightiest bat in the major leagues during the past week, while the "big ten" of each division underwent another revision in standings.

Hemsley moved into the American league lead with a .426 average derived from 26 hits out of 61 times at bat. That average put him 24 percentage points ahead of Lou Gehrig, slugging Yankee first-sacker, and 52 points in front of Sam Leslie, Brooklyn first baseman, who led the national league for the week, which ended yesterday. Gehrig moved up from fourth place to second at .402.

Reynolds Takes Tumble.

Carl Reynolds of the Red Sox, who led the American league last week, and Joe Vosmik of Cleveland, who was second, toppled far down the list, as did Kiki Cuyler, Cubs' outfielder, erstwhile National league leader. Reynolds fell from .464 to an even .400 to third place, while Vosmik slipped 27 points to .384. Cuyler tumbled from .411 to .363.

Five of last week's American league "Big Ten" dropped out of the picture. They were Babe Ruth, Joe Kuhel of the Senators, Roy Johnson, Red Sox and Don Heffner of the Yankees and Roger Cramer of the Athletics. The last two had been tied for tenth place. Mel Ott, the Giants' wonder boy, and Bill Jurges of the Cubs were the only National leaders who slid from the list.

Chuck Klein of the Chicago Nationals and Gehrig captured the all-around slugging honors in their respective divisions. Records of the 10 leading batsmen in each major league follow:

Denver Man Cracks World Golf Record

DENVER, May 19—(INS)—Ky Laffoon, the "Denver Tornado," today held what local golfers declared to be a world's record for 72 holes. Laffoon, sensation of the recent winter circuit, cracked a 63 in the morning round and a 67 in the afternoon for a total of 266 for the 72 holes played in the three days of the Park Hill open tournament, which ended Friday.

The best previous competitive showing for 72 holes on a standard course, according to available records, was made by Paul Runyan, Deal, N. J., pro, last month, when he totalled 270 in the Cavalier open tournament at Virginia Beach, Va., over a course 6,000 yards long, with a par 68. The Park Hill course is 6,625 yards long with a par 72.

MAJORS PLAY TO EMPTY STANDS

Moguls Discover Fans Cant Pay Fancy Prices To Grandstands.

BY PAT ROBINSON.

NEW YORK, May 19—(INS)—What's wrong with baseball?

When slim attendance greets even a world's championship club, there must be something wrong somewhere.

Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, says he found the fans staying away in thousands on the western trip.

It hardly can be lack of hitting, for already the boys who swing the war clubs are well on their way to smashing all records for homers and Chuck Klein of the Cubs, with an even dozen to his credit, has a great chance to beat Babe Ruth's 60, a mark everybody thought would stand for all time.

The teams are displaying more pepper and dash than they have in years, and as a result more interesting ball games are on tap nearly every day.

Therefore, what's wrong?

Prices Too High.

The question may be pertinent, but I'm afraid the club owners will find the real answer impertinent. They may call it rank heresy or high treason, but here it is: The prices are too high.

In a recent game, the Giants quickly filled their bleachers, which holds less than 5,000, although the capacity of the park is more than 50,000. Two or three thousand poor hombres with four bits in their jeans were turned away when the bleachers were filled. They did not see the game because they apparently could not afford to pay more for a grandstand seat.

Here are two suggestions which some multimillionaire club owners will frown upon, but which they might do well to heed if they don't want to see their clubs playing in secret: 1—Make all seats half a dollar for every game except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

2—Abolish the reserved sections which are against all baseball precedent.

Any freckle-faced kid should be entitled to any seat in the park he can get if he has the price.

Their Stock Arguments.

The club owners, of course, always trot out their stock arguments about "high salaries, never raised the prices in boom times, cheapest form of amusement, etc," but apparently the fans are more interested in seeing a game as cheaply as possible than they are in worrying where a poor club owner is going to find his next million.

Oh, well, maybe we'd best forget it and take a look at the dead coming to life, the dead in this case being the Reds, who took the Giants over the sticks, 2 to 1, yesterday. Ben Frey held the Giants to eight hits and Terry found the answer to his pitching problem in a youngster named Al Smith—no relation to the recent candidate for president—who held the Reds to five hits. Unfortunately for the bespectacled young lefty, three of the hits were bunched in one inning for all the Red runs.

Cubs Slaughter Phils.

The Cubs again picked on the unfortunate Phillies, 9 to 5, scoring three in the first canto and six in the third. In the first, Klein slapped his twelfth homer over the garden wall and in the third Hartnett got his eighth and young Stainback his first major league homer. It was Guy Bush's seventh victory without a defeat.

With Urbanski getting four for four, the Braves turned on the heat against four Cardinal pitchers and won, 6 to 2, and the Pirates upset the Dodgers, 8 to 3, in a woozy performance.

The gap between first and last places in the American league was again lessened when the White Sox trimmed the A's 5 to 4, despite Jimmy Foxx's seventh round trip ticket, and the Yanks again fell before the Tigers, 10 to 8. Eight doubles were made and Red Ruffing, although driven from the hill, was saved the ignominy of defeat when Smythe took the rap.

The Senators hooked up with the Indians again and this time the Solons won, 3 to 1, with Stewart having an edge on Lloyd Brown.

The Browns again took the Red Sox, 11 to 3, and I ask you, who, for instance, would want to pay more than four bits to see that? Who would even want to pay the four bits?

Frank Doljack, Tigers—Helped beat Yankees with triple, double and two singles.

Benny Frey, Reds—Limited Giants to eight scatered hits and won, 2-1.

Al Simmons, White Sox—Doubled in sixth to drive home run that beat Athletics.

Bill Urbanski, Braves—His four hits helped beat Cardinals.

"Big Six" Racquet Finals Saturday

VOSS AND UPSHER.

Arthur Voss of Kansas and Albert Upsher of Oklahoma won the right to meet for the Big Six conference singles title by winning Saturday morning matches at the Lincoln Tennis club.

Voss beat Albert Rollins of Oklahoma, 8-6, 6-4. Upsher, ranking player on the Sooner squad, defeated Wilber Haegen of Nebraska, 6-4, 2-6, 6-0.

Kansas and Oklahoma were battling for the Big Six conference tennis championship in the final matches at the Lincoln Tennis club Saturday. The Jayhawkers and Sooners monopolized the doubles finals and had three of the four singles semi-finalists, the other being Wilbur Haegen of Nebraska.

Nebraska and Oklahoma led in the team scoring at the close of the Friday play, each counting three points. Kansas and Iowa State each had two, Kansas State scored one and Missouri failed to get into the point column.

Butler of Kansas State scored the big surprise of the Friday matches when he waded through Kenneth Kell of Kansas with the loss of only three games.

Hugo Dean, Nebraska sophomore, came close to scoring an upset when he gave Albert Rollins of Oklahoma a hard match. Dean, after finishing a three-set preliminary match, pushed Rollins, 11-9, 6-4, before losing. Summary:

Singles.

Preliminary round—

Gene Waller, Iowa State, beat Roy Hoglund, Kansas State, 7-5, 6-4.

Huga Dean, Nebraska, beat Clyde Parker, Missouri, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

H. N. Loosbrock defeated B. G. Clark, 2 and 1, in a seventh flight match.

Lincoln High Trims Jackson.

Lincoln high school golfers added the scalp of Jackson high to their list of victims Friday afternoon by scoring an 11-1 triumph over the suburbanites on the Antelope course. Gordon McEntyre, Herman Strackbein, Meyer and Dean Boling did the work for the winners, while Jones, Forman, Et Steeves and Little competed for Jackson.

ANTELOPE MATCHES.

Harry Dr[illegible] this runaway 6 to 5 win over Milton Ebers in the first flight of the Antelope tourney featured the Friday play on the municipal course. Jay Loee advanced by downing Carl Loby, 2 and 1, while Sears defeated Wood by the same margin. Max Dillon was ahead of Don Carrothers at the finish, 3 and 1.

DECKER GETS ACE.

Ray Decker, Antelope golfer, joined the Hole-In-One club Friday at the municipal layout when he sank his tee shot on the 135-yard eleventh hole.

Griffin-Lingle Clan Bags 10-4 Victory Over Sioux Falls.

LADIES FREE TONIGHT.

Marquard or Seats, rookie left-handers, will get the nod to pitch tonight's game between Sioux Falls and Lincoln. The game will start at 8:30. Saturday night will be a ladies' night, with ladies admitted free. Sunday afternoon's game with the Canaries will begin at 3 o'clock.

The galloping Links, with a 10-4 win over Sioux Falls, went into first place in the Nebraska league pennant chase Friday night at Landis Field by virtue of a stunning relief pitching performance by Neely, as Beatrice dropped its first game of the season to Norfolk. Lincoln went in front in the fifth when Lefty Perry, Canary chucker, walked the first three men to face him. Ginslinger's single drove across a run and Morehouse's mighty triple to the boards sent three more tallies across the platter. Just to be different, Morehouse proceeded to steal home with the fifth run.

Four More Markers In Seventh.

The Links added a run in the sixth, off Liepelt, and broke out with four more runs in the seventh after Surgalski's error on Zimmerman's fly had spoiled a chance to end the inning.

Neely entered the game in the fifth frame when Lefty Farrington, the starting pitcher stumbled. For the ensuing five stanzas, the veteran chucker kept Canary bats completely subdued, limiting the visitors to a pair of hits and as many runs during the period he toiled on the mound. Neely, incidentally, received credit for winning the game. He fanned eight and walked one while working. The score:

Old Mauler Concedes California Play-Boy Is Headed for Defeat

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, May 19—(INS)—"If I was betting on the fight right now, I'd have to put my money on Carnera!"

That's only one of several surprising statements that were aired today by Jack Dempsey in connection with Max Baer, the man he has virtually hand-raised to the status of challenger for the heavyweight championship next month. He's not going to work with Baer this time. He won't be in his corner the night of the fight. If one felt like doing a little free-style guessing, he'd say this pair was something of a personal wash-up.

Dempsey Does Some Figuring.

"No," John went on, "This fight figures only one way. When a man's been out for a year and hitting the high spots, he needs at least four months of solid work to get in shape. Baer hasn't done that. He'll be lucky if he gets in four weeks of real training.

"As it turned out the last time, he was tiring fast against Schmeling and this is going to be different, much different. He won't find Carnera as easy to hit as the Dutchman was that night. Schmeling didn't train right, either, and he wasn't in real condition to fight.

"If Baer gets down to business and cuts out the 'Good-Time Charley act and his smoking, he has a chance. If he doesn't, he's a cinch to get licked."

Not Square With Manager.

Personally, the writer's acquaintance among "Good-Time Charlies" is limited, but he does happen to know that Baer seems to do his share of off-the-record smoking. He had a reporter friend hold his cigarette between puffs the other day, as a precaution against a premature appearance on the part of his manager, Ancil Hoffman. It is assumed also that, as far as his social tendencies are concerned, the young man is incurable. At least, Dempsey says he is and John ought to know. He followed Baer around so long that his shoes became spats.

"No," he said again, gloomily. "I'm not going to train with Baer. He has his life. I have mine. I've been trying to tell him what to do for five years. If you can't make an impression in that time, you might as well give it up. I don't think Baer ever will outgrow the small-boy stuff.

Sulks When Reproved.

"Tell him something and he starts to sulk and, five minutes later, he's done a fade-out on you somewhere. A fighter can't have chorus girls on his mind and get anywhere with this game. No, wait a minute. I'm wrong about that. He can get himself knocked somewhere out in the first five rows."

But surely John didn't look for Carnera to do the knocking in question?

"Why not?" he demanded, instantly. "That big guy really can fight. He's clever and don't let anyone tell you he hasn't got a punch or can't hurt you."

Come to think of it, the only people who seem absolutely sure that Carnera cannot hurt you are those who managed to reach this conclusion strictly on an optical basis.

One Day Off for Primo.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., May 19—(INS)—Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, was to interrupt his training for his title bout with Max Baer, June 14, today to visit New York City for a radio broadcast.

The big fellow has been working hard and is guarding against becoming over-trained. Yesterday he boxed three fast rounds with "Corn" Griggen and three cantos with Arthur Dekuh.

Maxie Still Playing.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 19—(INS)—Fun and more fun continued to be the order of things at Max Baer's training camp today.

The challenger's kid brother, Buddy Baer, is proving an excellent foil for Max's comedy tactics. Yesterday, when Max tired of sparring, he and Buddy put on a burlesque of a wrestling match that had the spectators howling.

Brother Buddy, who is 18, weighs 254 and is 6 feet, 6 inches.

JONES DEPICTS CHILD PROBLEM

Urges Modern Methods Of Determining Life Needs.

"This business of giving the child an opportunity in life can't be left to 'rule of the thumb' or ancient methods but is one that calls for intelligence," Cheney C. Jones of Boston, Mass., superintendent of the New England Home for Little Wanderers, declared in addressing the closing session of the first Nebraska conference on child health and protection in the Lincoln hotel Friday evening.

"In order to create an ordered social life in the world, man has created certain major social institutions," Mr. Jones continuer. "These are the family, the state, the church and the school. Just now we see that we've got to have an economic industrial device. Social service is a supporting device. Its function is ' salvage the individual who was missed by the other devices and to protect society from that individual until his faults have been corrected."

Urges "Life Viewpoint."

Mr. Jones said that the approach to all social work for children should be "from the viewpoint of life—what does the child need?—and not from theoretical views."

"First of all," he said, "you know that the child needs health. He needs education. I believe that this nation-wide idea of cutting the schools is not only cheating children but is also cheating ourselves. The child needs recreation and play. In short, the child needs most of the things that the average intelligent family would see to it that he would have."

"But we can't have decent family life and wholesome child life in America as long as our state of society denies the father or mother the right to work," Mr. Jones said in closing.

Dr. Frederick C. Clayton delivered a short memorial to the late Dr. Herman Von W. Schulte, who was president of the Nebraska Conference on Child Health and Protection. Dr. Schulte was for many years dean of the medical school at Creighton university and active in social work of the state.

Rail Commissioners Say Competition Of Trucks Proves Healthy

Truck competition has been a healthful influence upon railroads in this state, Nebraska railway commissioners declared in reply to the assertion of Joseph B. Eastman, federal railroad co-ordinator, that uncontrolled rate cutting to meet truck and water competition has been harmful to the carriers.

Chairman C. A. Randall said that as long as trucks are not restricted, the railroads should be given free rein to meet truck competition in any way. Carriers in some state may indulge in throat cutting, but in Nebraska, truck competition has welded the roads together to combat their common enemy, he declared.

Truck competition has been healthful, resulting in lower rates, Commissioner F. L. Bollen said. There is no need for curbing the right of railroads to reduce rates at will to meet competition, Bollen observed.

MRS. KRAEMER DIES.

(Special to The Star.)

ATTACK SUSPECT SAVED FROM MOB

Young Negro Is Moved From Jail Before Crowd Arrives.

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 19—(AP)—The timely removal of a young negro accused of attacking a 13-year-old white girl to an unnamed prison today was credited with having prevented a charge upon the county jail here by a mob which at one time numbered around 1,000 persons.

Apparently convinced of officers' statements that the prisoner had been whisked away some twelve hours before, the remnants of a mob which clamored for the negro's life during the night, finally dispersed shortly after 3 a. m., today, and sheriff's deputies said they thought the "trouble is over."

On the afternoon of the attack, a posse formed quickly and scoured the countryside for the unidentified negro. Twenty negroes were jailed the next day, all except one, whose name officers have refused to divulge, were released.

Negro Admits Threat To Kidnap Daughter Of Former Employer

NEWARK, N. J., May 19—(AP)—A negro formerly employed at the South Orange estate of Mrs. J. K. Lasser, wealthy society matron, was held today on charges he threatened to kidnap her 4-year-old daughter, Barbara Ann, unless paid $10,000.

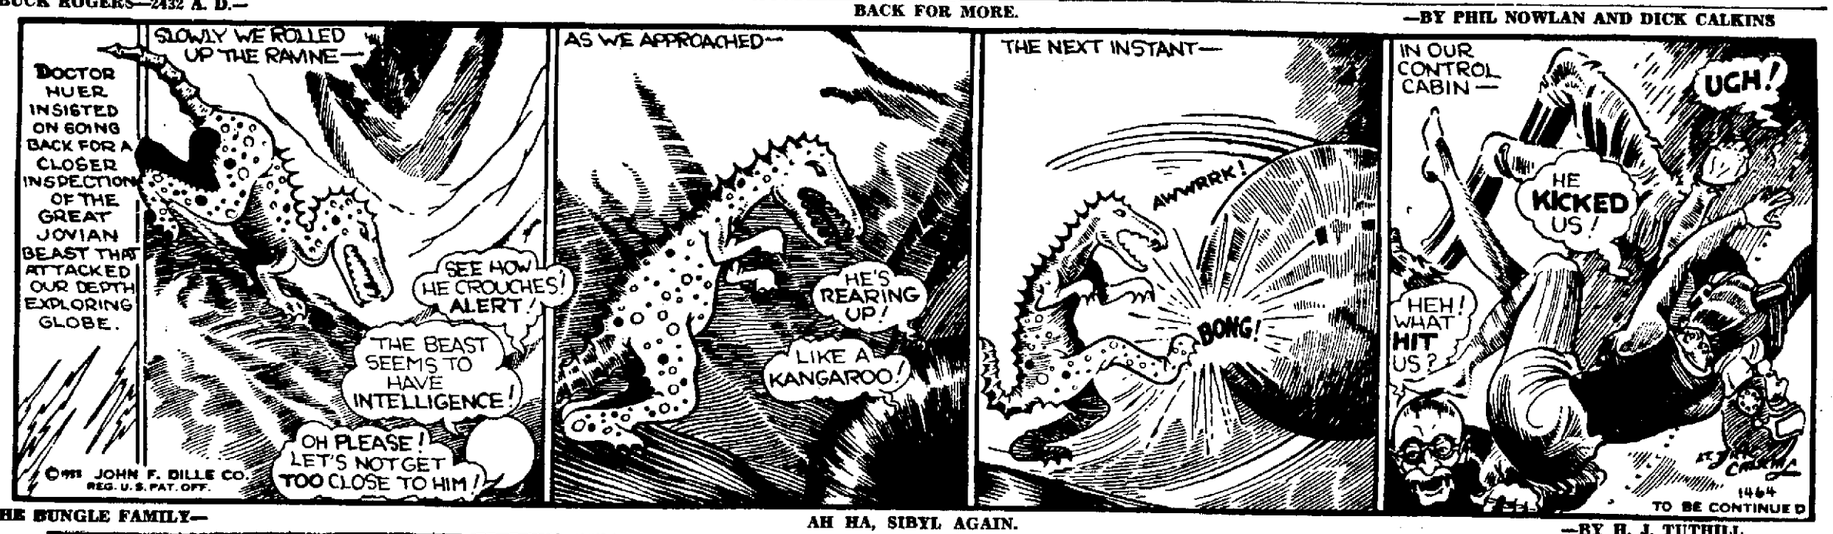

Mrs. Lasser's memory led to arrest of the negro, Horace Stevenson, 25. Police said he confessed the extortion plot.

After a futile attempt to trap the extortionist with a decoy package in Newark, Mrs. Lasser saw Stevenson loitering near the address where she had been directed to leave the money. She recognized him as a houseman who had been in her employ more than two years ago and she recalled, she said, that she once had heard him say that kidnaping was "an easy way to make money."

Mildly Mixed Prices Rule As Stock Market Drifts Through One Of Dullest Sessions In Months

Exchange Closing Tone Is Irregular

Some Scattered Profit Taking; Most Offerings Are Absorbed.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— The stock market today experienced one of the dullest session in nearly two years, and mildly mixed prices ruled in the indifferent trading. There was some scattered weekend profit taking, but most offerings were absorbed without difficulty. The close was irregular. Transfers were only 240,000 shares, the smallest since July 9, 1932."

The president's move for international action aimed at the supervision and control of the traffic in arms apparently did not take the financial district by surprise. Shares of Du Pont dropped a point or so, but recovered and other issues that might be classed as "war babies" seemingly were not particularly perturbed.

Wheat got up more than 1½ cents a bushel and the other cereals firmed, but the better grains did not seem to furnish any exceptional cheers or equities. Cotton about held its own while silver futures showed small advances. Rubber was a trifle lower. Bonds traveled in a restricted range and foreign exchange rates continued in neutral territory.

Shares of western Pacific preferred got up more than a point, as did those of Brooklyn Manhattan Transit and Howe Sound. American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco improved, but U. S. Smelting sagged.

Among the steadier issues were U. S. Rubber, Case, New York Central, Pennsylvania, American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey and United Aircraft. Only slight changes were shown by U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Western Union, General Motors, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Union Pacific adn others.

Some slackening in the steel industry was reported, although a moderate recession from the peak production level had been anticipated. At the same time news ticker reports indicated that the drop in automobile sales may have been halted, with some betterment seen in the activities of a few leading companies.

Speculative circles were awaiting the president's message on silver which is expected to be delivered to congress Monday. In some quarters it was believed the plan for silver legislation had distinctly inflationary aspects and that, with the treasury issuing certificates on the basis of $1.29 an ounce for the metal, it would be equivalent to the use of the gold profit resulting from dollar devaluation.

The principal question being considered by the "silverites" was whether the chief executive, with a "permissive" law to operate with, would decide on immediate action to aid the metal or suspend a broad purchasing program until further international agreements can be effected.

Most brokers expected the stock exchange control bill will be passed next week virtually in the shape desired by the administration. Few commentators would forecast the action of equities when the regulatory measure actually becomes law.

In addition to the president's arms control message to congress, the financial district read with much interest the results of a survey of industrial and trade conditions in April by the national industrial conference board.

The survey indicated there was a weakening of public purchasing power during the month and that production apparently was getting ahead of distribution in various lines.

"General distribution and trade declined more than seasonally in April, as compared with March, in both dollar value and physical value of turnover," the report said. "Department store and chain store sales, as well as primary shipments by rail, declined in the month.

"Department store sales showed a decline of 1.4 per cent in value of turnover in April as compared with March and were at a level 5 per cent above a year ago. The decline in dollar value of sales ran counter to a normal seasonal rise of 7.1 per cent. Prices of department store items advanced again in April to 0.4 per cent over the March level. Prices have increased 1.1 per cent since the beginning of the year."

The dollar was slightly lower in early foreign exchange dealings. The British pound gained ¼ of a cent at $5.11 and the French franc firmed .00¾ of a cent at 6.61¾ cents.

Wheat Prices at Chicago Advance

Market Closes Unsettled, 1⅜ to 1¾ Above Friday Finish.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 19—(AP)— Stimulated by next week's official forecast indicating no likelihood of a general break-up of drouth northwest, wheat soared late today 2¼ cents a bushel.

Week-end evening-up of accounts, together with brisk profit-taking, eased the market back somewhat in the final transactions. Winnipeg messages said the Canadian government agency was selling wheat on all hard spots in the market there, regardless of the character of weather reports.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1⅜ to 1¾ above yesterday's finish, May 90¾@90⅞c, July 89⅜@89¼; corn 1¼ to 1 up, Bay 49½@49⅝, July 52; Oats ⅝ to 1 cent advanced, and provisions exactly unchanged.

Responsive to unfavorable crop reports from drouth regions grain values scored material upturns early today. For the time being, word of moisture relief at various places was virtually unchanged. Opening ⅛ to 1 cent higher, July 88⅛@88½c, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started unchanged to ¼ cent up and subsequently made a general advance.

Gains in wheat prices soon amounted to about 2 cents a bushel, although selling enlarged enough to bring about reactions at times. Buyers acted largely on opinions of trade leaders that drouth injury to wheat was shewing rapid accumulation owing to combined effects of high temperatures and winds. These factors were asserted to be furnishing the worst possible conditions over enormous areas already lacking both surface and subsoil moisture of any adequate extent.

Included among advices tending to lift prices were authoritative statements that with continued dry weather chinch bug damage in the 75 principal grain producing counties of Illinois would be the greatest witnessed in fifty years. On the other hand, sustained buying on the part of commission houses did not follow wheat prices advances well. Numerous fluctuations resulted, and in some cases within a few minutes there were setbacks of about a cent a bushel from current top figures, but with swift rallies censuing as a rule. Corn and oats displayed on the whole greater relative firmness than wheat.

Provisions held about steady, influenced by hog values.

Wh efutuat cmfw cmfw cmfwyp fwypp

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 36,307,000 bushels, corn 7,738,000. Open interest in wheat was 90,419,000 bushels and in corn 65,120,000.

About mid-session, wheat was 1¼ to 1¾ cents higher compared with yesterday's finish and corn was ½ to 1 cent up.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 70 cars, a week ago 59, and a year ago 172.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— Stocks moved narrowly and irregularly in extreme dull week-end trading on the curb exchange today.

Wall street plainly was in a waiting mood, with the forthcoming presidential message on silver accentuating the tendency to mark time. News affecting the market was scarce.

Most changes in price levels were restricted to minor fractions. Small losses were recorded for such issues at American Cyanamid B, Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson Power, Cities Service, American Superpower and Distillers-Seagrams.

Oils were steady, with a firm undertone. Great Atlantic & Pacific non-voting stock got up 2 points and Parker Rust Proof spurted 6 points in a thin market.

Mining shares moved quietly. Pioneer Gold picked up a fractional gain.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— The bond market aroused no more than a perfunctory trading interest today and values shifted irregularly, but generally within narrow rangse.

High grade issues, including governments were firm although most markets were thin. Some of the treasury loans were lowered 1-32nd to 2-32nds of a point under small dealings. Libertys and Treasury 4¼s showed like gains.

Some realizing was evident in certain speculative classifications which were among the larger gainers on the week's advance. This brought declines running from fractions to around a point in Milwaukee Railway 5s, Alleghany Corp. 5s of 1950, Erie 5s, Missouri Valley 5s, New York Central 5s, Nickel Plate4½s, and Southern Railway 4s.

Some of the prime corporate loans slipped off a bit, but dealings were too small to give the price changes any significance. American Telephone 5s, Santa Fe 4s, Duquesne Light 4½s and Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s changed hands at slight recessions from the previous closing.

Firm spots were provided by American Light & Power, Detroit Edison 4½s, Great Northern 4½s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, Shell Union Oil 5s and Southern Pacific 4½s. These improved within fractional limits.

In light trading foreign loans moved unevenly, with German, French and Japanese issues down from fractions to a point. Other groups were steady.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, May 19—(AP)—Little interest has been shown by outside traders in the wheat market even though the drouth has created a bullish sentiment among professional traders and the general price trend has been higher. A wide fluctuation in prices was regarded as having been mostly the result of broader speculative trade rather than of aggressive buying or selling.

Scattered rain showers were reported in some parts of North Dakota and Montana, but the drouth continued unbroken in most of the northwest. Some rain also was received in the northern part of the Candaian province of Alberta, where precipitation this season has been about normal. A local crop observer reported from Bismarck, N. D., that showers would not help the grain crop in that area. He estimated the acreage in the region had been cut 25 per cent by the drouth.

E. J. Smiley, secretary of the Kansas Grain Dealers association, estimated a wheat crop for the state of 75,000,000 bushels, or about 24,000,000 bushels less than the government estimate for May 1. A report compiled by the Modern Miller on wheat conditions in the northwest was construed as bearish. The report stated that conditions were favorable in the principal growing area of the Red River valley in North Dakota and Minnesota. South Dakota conditions were said to be serious.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— COTTON—An early decline of 6 to 8 points in cotton was followed by rallies in the late trading on trade buying and covering. The buying apparently encouraged by the action of the wheat market, carried July up from 11.9 to 11.49 or 4 points net higher. The close was steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— SUGAR—Raw sugar was easier today, and following a sale late yesterday of 24,300 bags of Philippines in port at 2.75, which was 5 points below the previous price, further sales of 23,850 bags in port were reported today at the same level.

Futures were inactive. Prices fluctuated within a range of 1 point throughout the session and closed 1 to 2 points net lower.

Refined was unchanged at 4.20 for fine granulated.

Chicago Produce.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 19—(AP)— Butter was firm in tone today. Poultry was easier and eggs weak.

Varied weather news has served to create apprehension of butter traders. Moisture continued scarce in the north central states while the south and southwest reported sufficient rain for maintained production. Operators, therefore, while feeling there is cause for bullish sentiment, have been unable to grasp the underlying stimulant.

Dividends

PITTSBURGH, May 19—(AP)—The Aluminum Co., announced today that the board of directors, at the recent meeting, declared a dividend of 37½ cents a share on the outstanding preferred stock, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 15, 1934.

Municipal Pool To Be Opened Next Saturday

Paul Goss Again Manager With Masterson and Hagelin Life Guards.

Renovation of the municipal swimming pool and bath house was under way Saturday, preparatory to the opening on May 26, L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department said. The tank is being cleaned and the floor and walls will be painted a light green.

In the bath house a new drinking fountain must be installed, because the one that was there was "broken into bits by vandals who broke into the building during the winter," Mr. Oberlies said. Glass also must be replaced in three windows.

Season tickets will be available at the pool, beginning next Monday, the price to adults being $3. Juvenile tickets for those under 12 will be $1.

The staff for the summer will be headed by Paul Goss, as manager. Bernie Masterson will be assistant manager and chief life guard. A second guard will be Pete Hagelin. Mary Tobin, cashier last summer, will be back, and Dorothy Kemble will have supervision of the women's section. Mr. Oberlies is considering employing a hostess for the women's locker room.

The pool will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and arrangements are being made for free instruction to boys and girls in classes which will meet before the pool opens in the morning.

Liquor Advertising Protested By P.T.A.

DES MOINES, May 19—(AP)— Liquor advertising of all kinds received a verbal battering at the national congress of parents and teachers here Friday when the convention adopted a resolution protesting liquor advertising and ineffective control and sale of narcotics.

The resolution, adopted after considerable argument, stated:

"We protest the defects and ineffectiveness of present methods of the control and the sale of narcotics and alcoholic beverages, the use of subtle propaganda to encourage drinking, and all advertising of alcoholic beverages. We urge the enactment of the uniform narcotics act."

DIPLEY PAROLED.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19—(AP) —After serving more than 23 years in the Missouri state prison, Walter Dipley, the slayer of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight boxing champion and one of the outstanding light heavyweights of his time, was paroled today by Gov. Guy B. Park.

Lincoln Gardens Are Sources of Admiration As More Than 1,000 Iris Show Visitors Tour City

Garden enthusiasts and flower lovers from a radius of hundreds of miles of Lincoln were guests of the Lincoln Garden club Saturday morning on a tour of a few of the city's beautiful home gardens. A crowd variously estimated at from 1,000 to 1,500 toured to more than twenty-five Lincoln homes in more than 50 private cars and a number of chartered buses.

Almost the entire group of visitors was in Lincoln for the iris show at the coliseum and all evinced great interest in Lincoln's many gardens and flower spots. Some were frankly getting ideas "for the garden back home," and others were interested merely in "looking."

Of particular interest to all of the visitors were the irises at many of the homes visited and many beautiful specimens of this flower were seen. Many of the people whose homes were on display, however, said they thought it a little early for the gardens to make the best showing and all lamented the lack of moisture.

Many of the most beautiful flowers, including irises and peonies, were almost wilted by the high winds of the past few days.

The tour beginning at the bus depot was routed around the capitol, past First Plymouth Congregational church and Irving junior high school. The first garden visited was at the home of Arnott Folsom, 3315 West Pershing road. A cool, inviting, small garden, it was greatly admired by all of the visitors.

At the home of Misses Gere at Twenty-fourth and Van Dorn streets, the spacious lawn and the beautiful columbines of varying shades, attracted much attention. Next door the beautiful white peonies and varying types of evergreens of Mrs. W. E. Barkley were admired.

The formal gardens of Bert Faulkner and Willard Folsom also called forth a great deal of comment from the visitors. The irises at the home of Dr. Harry Everett, the president of the American Iris society, were of special interest to the guests.

Arnott R. Folsom	John Dorgam
Ellen and Frances Gere	Don Miller

Say Transient Admits Theft From Truck While His Benefactor Slept

Larceny charges will e be filed against Ben G. Pilgrim, 26, who admitted taking a camera and automatic pistol from a truck at Sixteenth and K streets, Friday afternoon, Chief of Police W. C. Condit said, Saturday.

Pilgrim, a transient, told police he had ridden with Walter Criswell, Montrose, Colo., driver of the truck, from Chicago. Pilgrim said he took the gun and camera while Criswell slept, but later had a touch of conscience and attempted to find Criswell to return the articles.

Unable to find Criswell, Pilgrim said he pawned the camera and went to a small restaurant where he ate the first "square meal" in two weeks. He said his check amounted to $1.10.

Pilgrim was arrested by officers at Twenty-seventh and N streets Friday night. When the officers approached, he said, he threw the automatic pistol away. The gun was later recovered by officers.

ROOSEVELT ASKS DRIVE ON CRIME

Signs Six Bills Giving Justice Department More Authority.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)— President Roosevelt called on all American citizens to marshal support today for the federal government's war on crime.

While the department of justice girded itself with new weapons to wield against criminals, the president said:

Uurges Public Support.

"I ask citizens, individually and as organized groups, to recognize the facts and meet them with courage and determination."

Public intolerance of the evil-doer, the president asserted, is needed to bolster the nation's drive on interstate crime.

In signing six bills yesterday to strengthen the forces of the department of justice, President Roosevelt signalized the action as "an event of the first importance."

Need $3,000,000 Fund.

Attorney General Cummings was said to believe about $3,000,000 is needed to get men and equipment for the extended war on the underworld.

Death for kinapers who violate the Lindbergh law is provided under the new laws. The measures also make it a federal offense to flee across a state line to avoid prosecution or testifying; to send ransom demands or threats across a state line; to kill or assault a federal officer; to smuggle contraband into a federal prison or incite a riot in such an institution; to rob a national bank.

John M. Allison of Lincoln Is Assigned Vice Consul at Tokyo

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)— The state department announced today John M. Allison of Lincoln, Neb., language officer at the American embassy in Tokyo, had been assigned vice consul at Tokyo.

Nebraska U. Graduate.

John M. Allison is the son of Mr. and Mrs O. J. Allison, 2710 Ryons street. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1927, going directly to Maizura, Japan, where he was instructor of English at the Imperial Japanese naval school.

He entered the foreign service as a clerk in the U. S. consulate at Shanghai and was transferred to Tokyo.

Mrs. Allison said she is expecting him home on furlough this winter or next spring, his first visit since September, 1931.

Search Continues for June Robles' Kidnapers

TUSCON, Ariz., May 19—(AP)— The search for suspects in the kidnaping of 6-year-old June Robles continued today despite her inability to recognize any of those brought before her.

Authorities were investigating two unnamed men. They were not held but could be reached if wanted again.

The case reached a sensational climax Monday when June was found imprisoned in a sheet-iron box buried in the desert.

NEW U. S. CRUISER IS COMMISSIONED

PHILADELPHIA, May 19—(AP) —The U. S. S. Minneapolis, one of the navy's newest 10,000-ton cruisers, was commissioned at the Philadelphia navy yard today.

The vessel cost $11,000,000 and has a designed speed of 33 knots. It will carry four airplanes and its largest guns are eight-inch caliber. It has a length over all of 610 feet.

The Minneapolis is one of the 18 heavier cruisers built under the Washington treaty.

NRA FLAYED BY FEDERAL JUDGE

Called 'Boldest Kind of Usurpation' in Kentucky Mines Case.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 19—(AP) —Judge Charles I. Dawson of the federal district court, who recently granted a temporary injunction to restrain prosecution of 34 western Kentucky coal operators under the national recovery act, today handed down a written opinion declaring the NRA as applied to local affairs was "the boldest kind of usurpation."

Judge Dawson's injunction, under which the western Kentucky mines are paying miners $4 for a seven-hour day in place of the $4.60 decreed by the NRA code, enjoined the district attorney from initiating any prosecution to enforce code penalties.

In support of his order, Judge Dawson's opinion today said that no constitutional justification for attempted regulation of local affairs could be found.

"It is the boldest kind of usurpation," it stated, "dared by the authorities and tolerated by the public only because of the bewilderment of the people in the present emergency. Every person at all familiar with the constitution and our scheme of government under it knows that no such power exists and its mere academic assertion would be amusing, but its determined exercise is tragic."

Discussing the recovery act, the opinion said:

"Apparently none of the activities of man are acknowledged as beyond its reach. If the existence of such power in the national government be admitted, it means the end of constitutional government in this country, under which individual effort and initiative have been fostered and encouraged, and the people generally have enjoyed a degree of liberty of person and security of property unknown to the rest of the world."

Re-Employment of Four To Five Millions Cited By Secretary Perkins

WASHINGTON, May 19—(INS)— Re-employment of from four to five million persons, with a rise in living costs of from 10 to 12 per cent during the Roosevelt administration, were cited by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins before the senate banking committee today in urging passage of the administration's housing bill.

The measure also was endorsed by Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who estimated that its passage would result in the re-employment of at least another half-million jobless.

NEW INVASION BY JAPAN IS FEARED IN NORTH CHINA

British Policy Termed Invitation to Japanese Militarists.

(Copyright, 1934 by the Associated Press).

LONDON, May 19 — Sir John Simon's declaration that Great Britain is not pledged to preserve the integrity of China "constitutes an open invitation to Japanese militarists to bite off another chunk of China," an official in high Chinese quarters charged today.

Fully agreeing with Sir Stafford Cripp's assertion that "Japan is converting Manchuria and Jehol into a vast military base," the official told the Associated Press:

"China now is in the direst danger as a result of Great Britain's statement of policy," as enunciated by Sir John, foreign secretary, before the house of commons.

Sees Britain as Ally of Japan.

"It looks," the official said, "as though Britain is moving in the direction of an ally of Japan to counter balance the Russo-American rapprochement. However, the Chinese hope this really is not true, for Britain should line up with the United States and thus hold the balance of power against Japan."

"Unless this is done Japan will continue her aggression" in China.

"It will delight the militarists in Tokyo, who will take advantage of the opportunity to advance farther into north China—knowing England will stand back.

"Sir John said America has not taken any steps to aid China. This is not true, for the United States always has led the way in such efforts against Japan. It is Britain that never has co-operated."

Criticizes Sir John.

"The foreign secretary always is talking about the rights of other powers in China and forgets the obligations of Britain and others under the treaties.

"His interpretations of the wording of the pacts are merely a legalistic way of avoiding the responsibility of Britain," the official went on, adding vehemently:

"Let Sir John Simon join America, not criticise her, for her efforts to obstruct Japan—only an Anglo American agreement can now hold Japan back."

Kearney Girl Winner Of State "Know Your County" Contest

The honor of being chosen as winner in the "know your county" contest open to public school pupils all over Nebraska, together with the reward of a free trip to the world's fair at Chicago, accompanied by her teacher was formally bestowed upon Miss Virginia Henline, 12, junior high school student of Kearney, by Governor Bryan at the executive office Saturday forenoon.

The girl received from the governor's hands a certificate attesting that she received the highest markings in the state wide competition sponsored and supervised by George Koehnke, Lincoln artist. Mr Koehnke was present at the ceremony, and a photographer snapped the scene as Governor Bryan handed Miss Henline her credentials.

She won over 2,000 other students by contributing in her thesis what were adjudged to be the most unusual and interesting facts concerning Nebraska and her home county, Buffalo. The contest closed April 1. All but six counties in the state were represented in the competition.

E. M. Collins, the Kearney girl's teacher, and her father, B. T. Henline, were with her when she received the certificate.

Twenty other students were given honorable mention, among them being Lawrence Frost, a rural pupil in Lancaster county living on Lincoln route No. 2. Judges were A. E. Sheldon, C. A. Bowers, Jesse J. Correll, H. B. Coffee, Mrs. G. H. Wentz, G. E. Condra, W. H. Brokaw, and E. H. Barbour.

Hearing June 7 On Intangible Tax Act

The Nebraska Supreme court Saturday set for hearing June 7 two suits attacking the constitutionality of the 1933 intangible tax law. In one action, Cohen Bros. Inc., of Gretna, asks an injunction restraining Sarpy county taxing officials from enforcing the law, and in the other suit Mueller McPherrin & Judd, Omaha accounting firm, seek a declaratory judgment.

Doctor's Nose Is Hurt In Collision

Dr. H. P. Selinger, 2621 North Forty-sixth street, was dazed but not seriously injured when his car bumped into the rear of a machine driven by Adam Schedt, 107 North Ninth street, on P street between Eighth and Ninth at about 6:50 o'clock Saturday morning. Dr Selinger was driving behind Schedt, when the latter suddenly stopped his car to drop a passenger. Dr. Selinger bumped his nose severely against the windshield.

HOLDREGE GETS TRAVELER MEET

W. C. Stewart Of That City Made Grand Counselor for Year.

OMAHA, May 19—(AP)—The Nebraska grand council, United Commercial Travelers of America, at the close of its 37th annual session, today urged continued development of an adequate highway program for the nation, indorsed the present "liberal federal aid program" for the states, and urged the senate to pass the $400,000,000 federal road appropriation for the coming year.

The council voted to ask Governor Bryan to set aside the week of June 24-30 as safety week, with the U. C. T. co-operating with chambers of commerce and other organizations in urging traffic safety throughout the state. It advocated legislation providing compulsory auto liability insurance by motorists in Nebraska.

Holdrege was awarded the 1935 council session, and W. C. Stewart of Holdrege, grand junior counselor, was elevated to the post of grand counselor, succeeding J. R. Elliott of North Platte. A. D. Meyers of Lincoln was elected grand junior counselor, F. P. Walker of Omaha, grand conductor; T. O. Merchant of Beatrice, grand page; N. V. Miller of Hastings, grand sentinel.

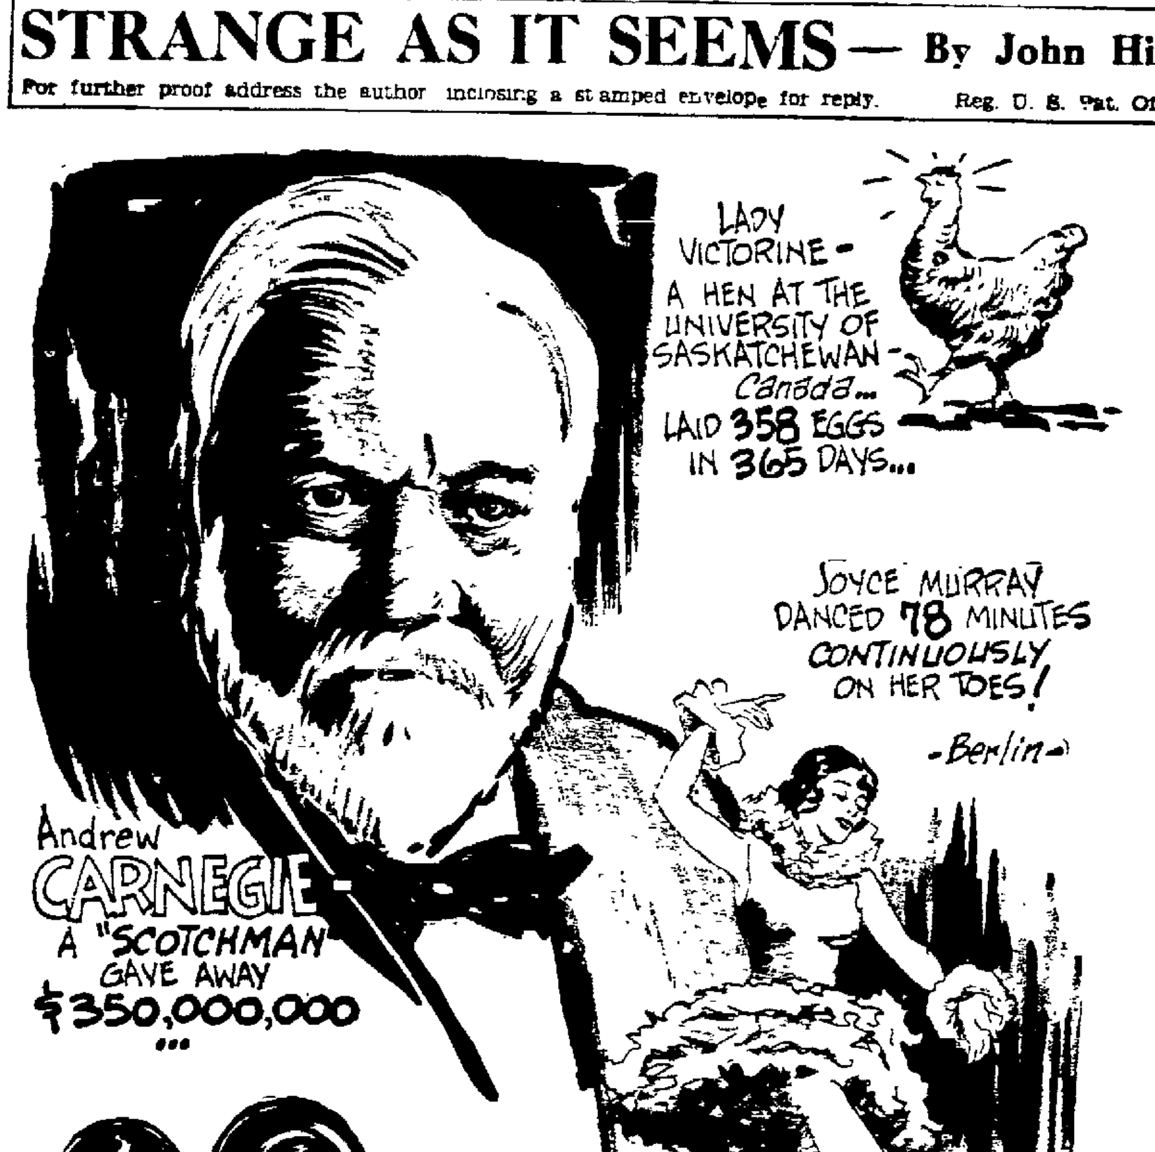

Ben Milder of Omaha was elected to the grand executive committee. Other members, all re-elected, are Roy Horney of Grand Island, chairman; James L. Carpenter, Nebraska City; E. E. Miller, Norfolk.

John Bailey of McCook, Frank Mitchell of Hastings, and Harry Price of Beatrice were elected Nebraska council delegates to the supreme council convention in Columbus, O., June 26-29.

The Holdrege post last night was presented the organization's "victory cup," awarded annually to the club that shows the greatest membership gain during the year. The presentation, a feature of the convention, was made by Secretary of State Harry Swanson.

Scotland gave the world one of its greatest philanthropists, Andrew Carnegie. In 18 years from 1901 to 1919 he gave away $350,000,000 to various funds for schools, libraries and other institutions. His grants during that time average almost $20,000,000 a year. In one year alone he made bequests of $130,000.

Carnegie was born at Dumfermline, near Edinburgh, in 1835. While still a boy he came with his family to America where his father was employed in a cotton mill near Pittsburgh. The son also worked in the cotton mill as a bobbin-boy. At 15 Andrew Carnegie, then a telegraph messenger boy, became the sole support of his family. His rise then through one position and another until he became a multimillionaire capitalist is well known.

In 1901, about 30 years after the formation of his first company, Carnegie retired from industrial life at the height of his career to [illegible] himself to the task of giving his money away where it might serve humanity best.

FERA To Pay Off Old Scrip In Cedar County

Due Bills Issued For Work Done To Be Taken Up By State Federal Agency at Once.

As the result of an agreement reached between Federal Relief Agent Rowland Haynes and State Senator J. P. O'Furey of Hartington in a conference held here Friday, the state relief organization will pay off upwards of $3,500 in old script issued to persons in Cedar county last fall for work done on local projects before the civil works administration began to function.

Payment of this scrip had been previously refused because the jobs were allotted in excess of funds which the state relief administration had allotted to Cedar county. Mrs. Rose Dolezal, who was then acting as county relief worker, issued most of the due bills but the county board also distributed some of its own account to persons whom it employed.

Federal Agent Haynes and Chairman W. H. Smith of the state relief committee dismissed Mrs. Dolezal several months ago and installed another worker in her place. The wage bills she ran up have since been in dispute, until now.

The total amount in controversy was about $7,000, but $2,900 of this is being charged off because the persons to whom the wages were due received governmental donations of wheat and oats to feed their livestock during the winter months, aggregating cash value of that amount.

Of the balance, $2,400 is to be paid at once to persons still on relief who have unpaid claims for work done last fall and who are still on relief.

This leaves $1,700 of work credits still be to checked over in order to determine which of them were incurred by Mrs Dolezal and which by the county board. The board had two bridges built and some other work done, which the state relief organization does not feel obligated to pay for. It will assume liability for the I. O. U.'s incurred directly by the relief worker, for a probable total of $1,000 or so.

Senator O'Furey also asked and obtained a regulation under which grocers who furnish food to families on relief orders will be paid twice a month, instead of once monthly as heretofore. Merchants have been complaining that they had to wait nearly two months after furnishing the goods before they got their money, owing to time required to certifying the accounts, getting the bills allowed, checks drawn and approved, etc.

New Rehearing Motion Allowed by High Court In Drainage Lawsuit

The Nebraska Supreme court Saturday granted Richardson county drainage district No. 1 permission to file a second motion for a rehearing of the case in which the court recently ordered the district to spend $50,000 for improvements at the lower end of the district to protect farms near the junction of the Nemaha and Missouri rivers.

The drainage district's first motion for a rehearing was overruled two weeks ago.

MORE FAMILIES PUT ON RELIEF

26,316 Families Given Federal Aid Last Week In State.

An increase of 1,947 families on relief rolls throughout Nebraska was noted for the second week in May, ending the 12th, as shown by reports on file in the office of Federal Agent Haynes. The total number of families listed was 26,316, compared with 24,369 the previous week.

Field Engineer Ford, a representative of the federal relief administration, who has been making a tour to determine the immediate needs of farmers, due to the drouth, paid Haynes a call Saturday while in Lincoln, enroute to Kansas City.

Ford went from here to Nebraska City to interview the manager of the packing plant in that city, which is now closed. Citizens of that city have asked that the plant be opened for the purpose of killing animals which the national relief administration expects to purchase for slaughter, and processing their meat to furnish as relief supplies to needy families.

George McLeod, state garden director, just back from a trip through 16 counties, found some relief gardens suffering from hot weather and lack of moisture, but saw a good many which are being watered regularly and are in good shape.

A total acreage of 2,565 is now planted in relief gardens in Nebraska, which may be increased to 3,500.

NEW WEED LAW IS CONSIDERED

$100 Fine Provided For Failure To Trim Up Vacant Lots.

Members of the city council Saturday agreed informally to pass, at the request of E. M. Bair, head of the street department, an ordinance providing penalties for failure to cut weeds on vacant property. The measure will be read a first time Monday.

According to Lloyd Chapman, deputy city attorney, the ordinance will define weeds as a nuisance and prosecutions will be brought under that section. The penalty on conviction will be a fine up to $100.

A section in the present measure requiring three cuttings between June 15 and August 15 will be retained in the new law. In cases of violation the council will have authority to order the weeds cut and the cost assessed against the property or prosecute. It also will be possible to invoke both provisions.

The new measure was copied from ordinances that have been enacted in other cities and upheld by the courts of several states, Mr. Chapman said.

CHALLMAN TELLS PURPOSE OF FCA

Says Federal Agency Is Not Competing With Other Loan Groups.

"The FCA is not interested in entering into competition with any institution or organization that is assisting in providing the means of a dependable source of co-operative agricultural credit, available at all times on a sound, business basis," L Oscar Challman of Omaha told 125 members of the Nebraska Mortgage Bankers association attending a banquet in the Lincoln hotel Friday evening.

"This setup to provide credit is one of the important measures to hasten recovery, aside from its purpose of permanency," Mr Challman said "However, it is well to make clear at this time one point on which there appears to be some confusion, and that is that the FCA is not designed to lend government money"

Social Value High.

"The social value of refinancing, of debt adjusting, of lowering interest rates, and deferment of principal payments cannot be estimated in its influence upon maintaining and increasing the morale of the people engaged in agricultural pursuits," he continued "No one can value what saving of thousands of farmers from foreclosures and enabling their creditors to obtain satisfactory settlement of their claims has meant to those concerned

"The purpose of the FCA," he said in closing, "is to lay the foundation for a co-operative credit system that will provide complete co-ordination and stable facilities unaffected by the ebb and flow of commercial credit"

W H Brokaw, state wheat administrator, speaking on "The Future of the AAA" declared that "one of its greatest contributions to agriculture has been that it has made farmers start thinking about their own problems."

"In the past," Brokaw said, "farmers went along their way blithely content and did not think of the problems which might face them in a year In order to sign one of these contracts a farmer had to analyze his crops and his cattle."

"AAA Purely Voluntary"

"The AAA is purely voluntary," Mr Brokaw said in closing "and must always remain so The American people can never be driven any place"

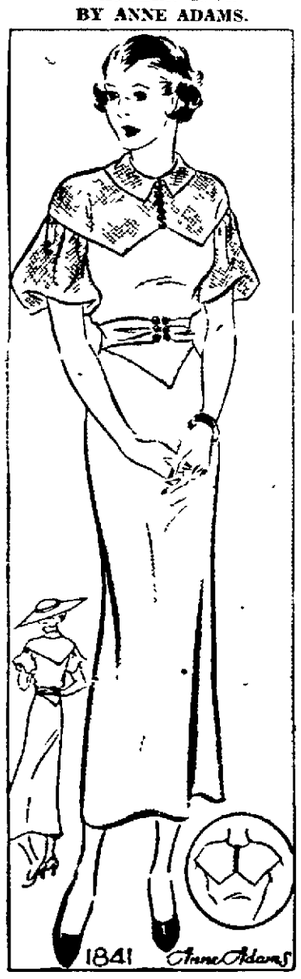

Louis S Clarke, president of the association, presided over a discussion period following Mr. Brokaw's address

Dean G. E. Condra of the department of conservation and survey of the University of Nebraska spoke briefly, explaining some of the services offered by the university. Chancellor E. A. Burnett also spoke briefly. Dean W. W Burr of the college of agriculture was toastmaster.

The banquet brought to a close the ninth annual Nebraska land valuation and management short course held on the agricultural college campus all day Friday

On Trial for Aiding Dillinger

PAROLE BREAKER HELD AS SLAYER

Man Captured, Arraigned In Texas 9 Hours After Killing.

DALLAS, Tex, May 19—(AP)—Nine hours after he killed a Dallas policeman, Richard Charles Rehm, New York parole violator, had been shot and captured, charged with the murder, indicted and arranged

Trailed by officers from the time he dashed out of a downtown garage, after shooting Luke J. Bell, a patrol driver, Rehm was forced to surrender under a barrage of pistol shots on the Wichita Falls highway near Roanoke yesterday. He suffered two flesh wounds.

Bell was slain after he had conveyed several prisoners to the rear entrance of the jail. Rehm made a dash for freedom but was pursued by Bell Both entered the garage and Rehm threw up his hands when Bell confronted him with a drawn pistol As the officer reached for his handcuffs with one hand, Rehm grabbed the pistol from the other and fired

Uncle Sam — Chestnut Puller?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, May 18—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, says Great Britain will not undertake to preserve China's territorial integrity or her "open door" and will not participate in any action "against Japan or any other power in other parts of the world unless the United States gives its full co-operation"

You ask yourself "when did Uncle Sam volunteer as world wide policeman and chief chestnut-puller-out, for the British empire?

Mr. Dillinger or somebody with a face like his, scarred as his face is scarred, returns to the front page, with machine guns, swift "getaway" automobile, gangster retinue, "fearless blonde moll" and all

In this latest occasion, time Friday afternoon, place, Flint, Mich., he holds up the Citizens Commercial and Savings bank, driving off with a wave of the hand, taking "between $25,000 and $100,000" as a souvenir.

Los Angeles Examiner reporters desiring to please an older man, headed an article Friday morning "Brisbane Gets Credit for Catching Stoddard"

Brisbane doesn't deserve any credit, and therefore does not want it The young reporters discovered that Brisbane, Sheriff Biscailuz and Captain Bright, chief of the homicide squad, conspired to get from the Gettle kidnapers the name "of the owner of the car found in the garage of the kidnap prison at La Crescenta," and thus identify a fourth kidnaper.

Brisbane is supposed to have proceeded, with ten times the genius of any Sherlock Holmes to "construct a psychological trap."

"The trap was set. Captain Bright was quick to take advantage of the moment, demanded who owns that car?" and "before he knew what he was doing, Kirk blurted out Stodard's name.

Thus history is written. Captain Bright, a good policeman and detective, evidently did get Stoddard's name by putting his question at the right moment, but nobody had mentioned any car or any "psychological trap," to Brisbane, or anything about any "fourth man Stoddard" All the Sherlock Holmes credit must go to Captain Bright and Sheriff Biscailuz.

MARTIN WINS OREGON RACE

Former Major General Is Demo Nominee for Governor.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19—(AP)—Charles H Martin, a major general who went to congress at the conclusion of a brilliant military career and then decided to relinquish his congressional post to become governor of Oregon, today was a step nearer his desire.

Congressman Martin was given a commanding vote in yesterday's statewide primary election and will be the democratic candidate for governor in the November general election. Both Martin and his primary opponent had urged complete support of the Roosevelt principle and the new deal

Martin's republican opponent for governor in the November election will be Joe T Dunne of Portland veteran state senator

A proposed state sales tax urged to save elementary school districts from bankruptcy, met defeat.

PERU, COLOMBIA IN PEACE PACT

Agreement Reached In Border Dispute Which Threatened War.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 19—(AP)—The Peru-Colombian contest for the jungle border village of Leticia—a contest which threatened at times to break into open war—ended today with acceptance of a Brazilian formula.

The formula which ends a bitter, 20-month-old dispute between the two nations was drafted by Afranio de Mello Franco, foreign minister of Brazil.

Three major headings are embraced in the agreement:

1 A pledge by both nations to observe all existing treaties relating to the Leticia area;

2 Creation of arbitration and appeal tribunals;

3 Adjustment of old disputes concerning sanitation, river navigation, customs and duties, and the education of the Indians in separate accords.

In anouncing officially that the formula had been accepted, Luis Cano, Colombian representative in negotiations here, said that ratification is assured.

Fearing war between the two countries, the League of Nations, the United States and other nations have struggled to end the dispute since strife in the Leticia region began late in 1932

No City In State Got Normal Rain In April—Blair

Only two previous Aprils have been drier than last month and only seven since 1876 have been warmer, T A Blair, senior meteorologist, reports in his general weather summary for the state, released Saturday.

"The average precipitation, .54 of an inch, is only 22 per cent of the normal amount," Mr. Blair said. "The two previous drier Aprils have been within the last eight years; namely, 1926, with .52 of an inch; and 1928, with .46 of an inch The deficiency was greatest in the eastern part of the state. The percentages of normal by divisions were as follows: northeast, 17 per cent; southeast, 14 per cent; southwest, 28 per cent, west, 24 per cent; and southwest, 29 per cent. No single station in the state received as much as its normal amount of rain and only 19 stations received more than one inch of precipitation"

Precipitation was general, though light, during the first five days of the month, falling as snow in the western divisions and as rain in the eastern divisions, the report shows In the eastern division this was the only rain period during the month, no appreciable amount being received after April 5, records show In the western half of the state, there was a general rain period also from April 14 to 16 with a few moderately heavy amounts

"The general state deficiency since January 1 is 2.42 inches and since October 1 is 3.96 inches," Mr. Blair stated. "In each case the deficiency is 50 per cent of the normal."

With low humidity and frequent high winds, all vegetation throughout Nebraska was suffering for moisture at the end of the month, he said.

Vacation Bible School Teachers Attend First Instruction Meeting

Miss Gloria Diener, Chicago assistant editor of the International Journal of Religious Education, was the principal speaker at the Y. W C. A. Friday evening at the first of a series of five meetings of instruction to be held in preparation for the annual daily vacation Bible school, which will start on June 11.

Speaking on "The Place of Story Telling in Character Building," Miss Diener said, "It is through stories that we learn to develop attitudes." She was introduced by Miss Ruth Easterday.

Monday, May 21, Miss Lyda Dell Burry, a representative of the Lincoln recreation board, will discuss the importance of handcrafts in Bible school work; and on Tuesday evening Ralph Copenhaver will tell of the value of games and entertainment

Miss Pearl Maus, Chicago, will appear on both the Monday and Tuesday programs of the week following. She will talk on "How to Build an Experience Centered Curiculum," and "Student Government in the Vacation Bible School."

Rev. W. L. Ruyle, chairman of the Bible school committee, announced that there probably will be at least fifteen such schools sponsored in the city, and enrollment probably will reach a total of 1,000.

Fine Arts Students Take Trip To Mars At Bohemian Dance

Nearly fifty University of Nebraska fine arts students took a trip to "Mars" Friday evening in Morrill hall, the "excursion" being their annual Bohemian hop.

Strange "Martian" costumes predominated, for no one maintained his earthly appearance. There were queer looking ladies and mechanical men, some with "Buck Rogers" stature and others equally imaginative.

Helen Klein and Florence Smiley won first in the costume parade, and Bud Olson and Thurlo Reckmeyer placed second Etchings and photographs were presented to the winners

An auction of fake pictures and a "movie" provided entertainment preceding the dance The play" show program was made up of a comedy by the freshmen, a newsreel by the sophomores, a travelogue by the juniors, and a feature picture by the seniors.

The second floor hall was decorated with queer "space ships," and the walls were lined with peculiar geometrical trees Gallery A was filled with student art work, exhibited especially for the ocassion

Telling the Boss

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 19—His patience "ceased to be a virtue," said Lee M. Rayson Lowell, Fla., farmer

So he wrote to President Roosevelt about the numerous unsuccessful attempts he has made to collect $676 which he says the CWA owes him for use of his wheeler and mules.

The matter was referred to the regional administration.
